STOCKHOLM—At the risk of being thought to be a spoilsport, I must destroy two famous legends which the outside world believes about Sweden.

The first is about the bath women. From my childhood I had heard about them—how the moment you were in your bath, they came in and scrubbed your back. The bathroom in my hotel in Stockholm was so small that I could not imagine how both the bath woman and I could occupy it together. Anyway she never came. It seems the whole thing is a myth, and it is only in the public baths that the unsuspecting traveler is subjected to these ablutionary assaults.

Then, I had always been told that the Swedes all bathed in the sea naked. On this subject I had neither qualms nor expectations, since the bathing season was already over when I arrived. But I have enquired into the matter from a number of credible witnesses and am bound in honesty to report entirely negative results.

WOOD, WOOD, WOOD! Everything in Sweden is made of wood. It would drive Jimmy Durante into a delirium; even the brandy is made of wood alcohol, diluted with cheap Spanish spirit. Snaps, which used to be made of potatoes, is now

Minister Says:

Some Revisions Being Planned Vets' Pensions

OTTAWA, Nov. 22—(CP)—Veterans' Minister Mackenzie today announced the Canadian pension commission, after lengthy research and study, has authorized an upward revision in the rates of pension payable for certain disabilities effective from Oct. 1 this year.

One such change increased the rate of pension for total deafness of both ears from 50 to 80 per cent.

THE MINISTER explained that a principle involved in some of the increased rates was that the composite assessment of percentage of disability, where more than one disability existed in the same man, will be that the arithmetical total of those total disabilities, must not exceed 100 per cent.

"For example the pension awarded for loss of the right thigh has been 70 per cent," the minister said, "while loss of the left eye has been assessed at 40 per cent. Where one man had both disabilities, formerly his total disability would be assessed at 80 per cent of the grounds there was overlapping of disability. Under the amendment the combined assessment will be 100 per cent."

Action has been taken to adjust pension payments retroactive to Oct. 1.

Suffield Station Is "Permanent"

OTTAWA, Nov. 22. — (CP) — Defence Minister Abbott said today at a meeting of the finance committee of the senate that German prisoners-of-war would remain in Canada throughout the winter.

The question of when they would return to Germany was being taken up with the British government, said Mr. Abbott. However, no prisoners would be returned to Germany until next spring at the earliest.

HE WAS REPLYING to Senator W. A. Buchanan (L, Alberta), who also asked about the future of the research station at Suffield, Alta. Mr. Abbott said the station would be continued as a "permanent" station. It was an important station and considerable research was being carried on.

"We are trying to get rid of our surplus trucks as fast as possible," the minister said in reply to suggestions that trucks not required by the Army should be released immediately to supply the urgent requirements of farmers.

Many Bush Pilots Granted Licenses

OTTAWA, Nov. 22. — (CP) — Licenses are being issued to bush pilots "pretty freely" Reconstruction Minister Howe told the Senate railways committee yesterday.

Encouragement was being given to the pilots to operate in the northland and other remote parts of Canada because "we want to see that service built up and the bush pilots will be able to obtain planes and other necessary equipment as rapidly as they become available."

AIRFIELDS are being operated at Yellowknife in the Northwest Territories and north of the St. Lawrence to serve the bush pilots.

The committee gave its approval to the measure increasing the capital of Trans-Canada Airlines from $5,000,000 to $25,000,000 to buy new equipment for Canadian operations and operate trans-oceanic services.

Storm of Indignation Follows Ottawa Action

Call Mass Hospital Protest

Angered by the Dominion government's decision to establish a permanent hospital for tubercular Indians on the site of the former Jesuit College, in the face of a storm of protest, Edmonton citizens will hold a public mass meeting Sunday in the Memorial Hall at 2:30 p.m. to 'discuss the action of federal authorities.

MAYOR HARRY AINLAY, active in the fight to prevent the hospital being established here, has been invited to address the gathering. He has already wired Prime Minister King protesting that the hospital is a violation of the city's zoning bylaw.

Protest against the Indian hospital will be linked with a strong protest against the loss of the buildings as temporary shelter to relieve Edmonton s critical housing shortage.

The gathering will also formulate definite demands on the Dominion government to immediately relieve the serious housing problem here.

ALD. MRS. R. E. BROWNE, recently elected as a Civic Democratic Alliance candidate to city council, is heading the plans for the meeting.

It is expected that many individual officers and members of the Canadian Legion, which led the fight to have the Jesuit College

Deadlock Tightens In Windsor Strike

By JACK WILLIAMS

WINDSOR, Ont., Nov. 22.—(CP)—Strike of 10,000 Ford Motor Company workers in its 72nd day appeared more tightly deadlocked than at any time since Ford local members of the United Automobile Workers (CIO) walked out in a union security dispute.

For the past 18 days efforts of top union officials, company executives, Labor Minister Mitchell and Attorney-General Leslie Blackwell of Ontario lent periodic optimism of an early settlement.

Late yesterday those hopes crashed when three days of union-company meetings broke off in a note of gloom. Union officials said they were unable to make any progress because the company would not discuss union security—a union shop and check-off. The company said it did not consider these matters appropriate for a basis of settlement.

The collapse of Windsor discussion gave rise to new speculation of action by the federal government in Ottawa.

TORONTO, Nov. 22.—(CP)—Executive council of the Canadian Congress of Labor, the Canadian CIO affiliate embracing some 350,000 union workers across Canada, met in closed session today to consider the deadlock in the Ford Motor Company strike at Windsor, Ont.

CCF Candidate Wins Majority In Sask. Vote

WADENA, Sask., Nov. 22.—(CP)—Fred Dewhurst, CCF candidate, was elected in the Saskatchewan Legislature in the by-election for Wadena constituency yesterday as 47 out of 50 polls gave him 2,670 votes compared to 569 for William Beech-ing, Labor-Progressive candidate. The by-election was held to elect a member to succeed the late Major George H. Williams, agriculture minister in the CCF cabinet, who died in Vancouver in September. Only two candidates contested the election.

Party standing in the Legislature now is the same as after the provincial election in 1944: CCF 47, Liberal 5, active service voters' representatives 3.

Chamber Head

C. G. COCKSHUTT

Settle Gets Post

C. G. Cockshutt New President Canada C. of C.

MONTREAL, Nov. 22.—(CP)—C. G. Cockshutt of Brantford, Ont., was elected president of the Canadian Chamber of Commerce at a meeting of the chamber's national executive here yesterday. Mr. Cockshutt succeeded G. A. Dobbie of Galt, Ont.

AUTHORITY FOR the special election of officers at the one-day meeting of the executive was granted by referendum by the national chamber's member boards of trade and chambers of coumerce from coast to coast.

This procedure was made necessary by the cancellation of the chamber's annual meeting which was to have been held in Winnipeg this fall.

THE FOLLOWING vice-presidents were elected: British Columbia, J. V. Johnson, Victoria; Alberta, R. H. Settle, Edmonton; Saskatchewan, A. A. Murphy, Saskatoon; Manitoba, E. B. Frost, Winnipeg.

Provincial national councillors include: British Columbia, T. C. Clarke, Vancouver; Alberta, H. B. Macdonald, MLA, Calgary; Saskatchewan, R. L. Christopherson, Regina; Manitoba, F. H. Longworth, Brandon.

Consider Chairman For Allied Group

By R. H. SHACKFORD

Exclusive to The Edmonton Bulletin

LONDON, Nov. 22.—(BUP)—The United States will propose that a representative of some small nation be elected chairman of the 51-nation United Nations preparatory commission opening Saturday, well informed sources said today.

The executive committee of the preparatory commission delayed its final meeting until tomorrow because the Russian, Mexican and Iranian delegates have not arrived. The missing delegations were delayed because of fog and bad flying conditions.

American delegates are seeking to wipe out the feeling among little and middle sized nations that the big powers have been grabbing all key administrative positions in the world organization.

They appeared confident of gaining support for the proposal, although they have not yet approached Soviet Russia.

The American plan also proposes election of small nation delegates to two vice-chairmanships of the commission.

An Editorial

The 80 Per Cent Come First

Those members of parliament who have attacked the operations of Wartime Housing Limited on the basis of the priorities given to that organization demonstrate incredible ignorance of the facts of the housing situation. They apparently ignore the profound and fundamental truth that private enterprise cannot and will not build modern low-rental houses.

The construction of modern low-rental houses cannot possibly show a profit. It is bound, under present circumstances, to show a loss on some of the capital invested without returning any interest whatever. Only the government can construct modern low-rental homes to rent at from $18 to $25 a month.

Eighty per cent of all the employed persons in Canada receive less than $2,150 a year and the majority of that 80 per cent receives less than $1,000 a year. Their rentals must fall within the $18 to $25 a month category.

The Hon. Mr. Ilsley has completely failed to appreciate either the magnitude or the implications of this housing problem which has been on his desk for the past three years. He has shown himself absolutely incapable of recognizing the human factors in that problem.

Only two plans have emerged in the past three years from Mr. Ilsley's office with regard to housing:

1. The reorganized National Housing Act which provides loans at 4½ per cent interest. But only those with a net income in excess of $2,150 a year are eligible for these loans.

2. The proposed insurance company plan under which the government gives a guarantee to the insurance companies of a profit of not less than 2½ per cent on their investment in the construction of houses. This plan is doomed to failure even before it goes into operation because the cheapest accommodation offered is $28 and up.

Statistics show that no one can pay more than 20 per cent of his net income for housing accommodation without lowering his general living standard and seriously unbalancing his entire household economy. This plan, therefore offers nothing to 80 per cent of the Canadian people.

Instead of carping at the priorities given Wartime Housing and making fatuous demands in behalf of private enterprise, whose hands are completely tied in the matter anyway, members of parliament have a solemn duty to insist that the first consideration in housing be given to the low income families which comprise four out of five of the Canadian population.

Attlee Declares:

Atom War Would Kill Many Millions

LONDON, Nov. 22.—(CP)—Anthony Eden today urged the scrapping of veto powers under the United Nations charter as a result of atomic-energy discoveries.

SPEAKING IN A House of Commons debate on foreign affairs, the former foreign secretary urged that all countries state their "present ideas of sovereignty."

Mr. Eden proposed revision of the United Nations charter after Prime Minister Attlee warned that if the world again lapsed into war on a large scale "atomic warfare will result in the devastation of towns and the deaths of millions."

Agreeing with Mr. Attlee that no set of rules would enable the world to survive a future war if the atomic bomb was "latent and used," Mr. Eden declared:

"WE HAVE GOT somehow to take the sting out of nationalism. The

Sixty Delegates Of Trade Board Attend Meeting

Exclusive to The Edmonton Bulletin

RED DEER, Alta., Nov. 22—Sixty delegates from all parts of the province met here Wednesday for the annual meeting of the Alberta Board of Trade and Agriculture, presided over by President J. B. Hollen, of Vegreville.

A large number of resolutions came before the session during a busy day. The Bonnyville Board of Trade urged that an all-weather highway be built to Cold Lake to provide an outlet for that point and to open it up as a tourist attraction.

CALGARY DELEGATES presented a brief asking a federal-aided highway system for Canada. Calgary also urged that steps be taken to promote boards of trade in points not so organized. Red

Govt. Nominee Quebec Winner

ST. GEORGES, Que., Nov. 22.—(CP)—G. Octave Poulin, Union Nationale government candidate, was elected to the Quebec Legislative Assembly in the Beauce County by-election yesterday on the basis of 84 polls reporting out of 113. The majority at that time was 4,388.

Mr. Poulin defeated Liberal candidate Henri Renault, former provincial trade and commerce minister, and J. E. Gregoire, Social Credit, who was trailing far behind.

Last detailed reports gave Mr. Poulin 2,927 votes in 33 of the 113 polls; 1,660 to Mr. Renault and 303 to Mr. Gregoire. At that point, however, returning officers began reporting majorities only.

THE BY-ELECTION resulted from the resignation, due to ill health, of Edouard Lacroix, Bloc Populaire. The Bloc did not contest the election, and Andre Laurendeau, provincial party leader, said that the party was observing a neutrality "without favor to anyone whatsoever."

Mr. Poulin's election brings the standing in the Legislative Assembly to 49 for the Union Nationale, 37 for the Liberals, three for the Bloc Populaire, and two Independents.

Yanks and Japs Break Up Rioting

TOKYO, Nov. 22.—(BUP)—Reports from Akabia Amachi, a coal mining town on Hokkaido, said today that American military authorities and Japanese police broke up a riot between 800 Chinese and 1,500 Korean "slave laborers," imported during the war by the Japanese.

Nazi Plot to Seize Power In Germany Told Tribunal

By NOLAND NORGAARD

NUERNBERG, Nov. 22.—(AP)—A score of high Nazis listened in shocked surprise today while American prosecutors told the International Military Tribunal how the Nazis plotted and seized power in Germany, killing or imprisoning any who opposed them.

AN AFFIDAVIT signed by Wilhelm Frick, once protector of Bohemia and Moravia, the day before the trial opened told how Hermann Goering carried out the 1934 blood purge in Northern Germany on Hitler's orders, after Heinrich Himmler convinced the Fuehrer of a plot.

"Many people were arrested," the Frick affidavit said. "Something like 100, or even more, were killed. All this was done without resort to legal proceedings. They were just killed on the spot. Many people were killed—I don't know how many—who actually did not have anything to do with the putsch.

MAJ. FRANK WALLIS, assistant United States prosecutor, produced numerous minutes of early Hitler cabinet meetings at which five of

Victim Is Overcome By Smoke in Brief Jasper Avenue Fire

A 43-minute fire confined to a second-storey room in the Cattistock block, 10521 Jasper avenue, early Thursday morning took the life of a tenant, Miss Martha Clausen, 40 years old, chief Macdonald hotel telephone operator and former resident of Prince Albert, Sask.

THE FIRE, BELIEVED CAUSED by a smoldering cigarette, broke out at 1:15 a.m. and the fire department's all-out came at 1:58 a.m.

It was the third fire fatality in less than a week here, and the fourth Cattistock block fire in five years. Thursday's blaze was said to have been confined to the one room through fire-proof insulation of the walls.

LAST THURSDAY afternoon, the two infant daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Robert L. Evans, 10246 149 street, died when fire swept the little Jasper Place home.

In April, 1941, James Moore, 43, and Mrs. Frances Pollock, 60, died as fire swept through the building. Three other persons were injured. Earlier that year, in January, tenants were forced to flee into the bitter weather outdoors as fire threatened to destroy the premises. In 1940, considerable damage was caused by fire.

The brief blaze which damaged the interior of the room Thursday, coupled with damage by smoke and water, was fought by crews from No. 1 and 2 fire halls using two lines of hose under direction of Chief James Macgregor. A third line of hose, kept for safety on the second floor, was also brought into play.

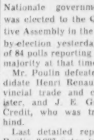

POLICE CONSTABLES discovered Miss Clausen, clad in underclothes and a housecoat, in the room shortly after their arrival in No. 1 prowler car. She was lying face down on a chesterfield chair that

Lt.-Gen. A. M. Patch Dies of Pneumonia

SAN ANTONIO, Tex., Nov. 22—(AP)—Lt. Gen. Alexander M. Patch died in military hospital here last night.

The commander of 4th Army Headquarters, veteran of the First Great War and commander of the United States 7th Army in Europa during the Second Great War, died of pneumonia.

Gen. Patch

His death at the age of 55 came after an illness of more than a week. He was admitted to the hospital Nov. 14. At his bedside were his wife, his daughter, Julia, and his daughter-in-law Mrs. Alexander M. Patch III.

The General handled the mopping-up of Japanese troops on Guadalcanal, moving in with army troops late in 1942 to relieve marines. Previously he had commanded United States troops in New Caledonia.

Early in 1944 he was made commander of the United States 7th Army in Europe. In mid-summer he led that army when it carried out invasion operations on the southern French coast. A few days after the landings he was given the temporary rank of lieutenant-general.

Workers Plan Battle to End In GM Strike

DETROIT, Nov. 22.—(AP)—The CIO Auto Workers Union dug in today for a long battle against General Motors Corporation and simultaneously sought to tighten its already nearly complete strike hold on the company's country-wide factory network.

"WE WILL TRAVEL the strike road to the bitter end," said Walter P. Reuther, union vice-president who has led the fight for a 30-per-cent wage increase for General Motors' employees.

Within three hours after the walkouts began at 9 a.m. MST yesterday, General Motors' vast production system came to a near standstill. Only the Meadow Gorn, hail Wayne unit of the 75 GM plants under contract with the UAW remained in operation, company and union agreed.

A COMPANY SPOKESMAN announced at 2 p.m. that the corporation's entire production force of 187,000 workers was idle. Another 100,000 on the company payroll are either salaried workers or members of other unions, the spokesman said, adding there was no way of determining how many of these were affected by the strike.

R. J. Thomas, UAW-CIO president, said the union had a $4,000,000 war fund, "Additional support from the national CIO has been intimated. Mr Reuther said, however, that "we will not be able to pay the strikers any compensation."

"WE WILL FIGHT to prevent evictions," he said. "We will pay rent where it is necessary. We will pay doctor bills."

Postpone Trial Of Nazi Criminal

By ROSS MUNRO

NUERNBERG, Nov. 22.—(CP)—The trial of Maj.-Gen. Kurt Meyer, SS officer charged with the death of 18 Canadian prisoners of war in the Normandy campaign, has been postponed from Nov. 28 to Dec. 10, Canadian correspondents were advised here today.

Meyer is the chief war crimes defendant who will appear before a Canadian military tribunal at Aurich, Germany.

MAJ. TREVOR GOULDING, of Edmonton, liaison officer at British Army of Occupation headquarters, made the announcement of the postponement today.

(Canadian military headquarters in London had no comment of Maj. Goulding's announcement.)

Smuggled Jewels Are Sought

Gems Bought from Serviceman For $5,000 Resold for $85,000

MONTREAL, Nov. 22.—(CP)—The Montreal Gazette said today in a newspage item that Ontario and Quebec police had uncovered the story of how a pouchful of gems, purchased by a Montreal barbotte operator from a serviceman for $5,000, later was disposed of in Toronto for $85,000. The disclosure came in investigation of the hoodled gang, sought in connection with a $53,000 jewelry robbery at the home of Mrs. Noah Timmins in suburban Westmount last month.

"Toronto, Ottawa, Hull, Montreal and Westmount detectives worked on a clue they hoped would lead to the gang during the past 10 days," the Gazette said, "but finally obtained the information that serviceman sold diamonds to barbotte operators in Montreal who disposed of some of them in Toronto. Queen City buyers moved to Ottawa and disposed of some of the gems to jewellers there and in Hull, it was learned. The traced diamonds were not identified as having been stolen here.

A Hull jeweller notified police when he was offered a 3.5 carat diamond for $1,900.

The Gazette added: "It was believed last night that federal investigators had taken over the case in an effort to trace the servicemen who had smuggled the diamonds, and to discover the present owners to obtain payment of customs duties."

Nazis' Trial

the current defendants laid the groundwork for the rape of Germany in an ambitious step toward attempting to dominate the world.

The prosecution told with mounting stacks of documents, all meticulously kept by the Nazis themselves, how the followers of Hitler finally gained power in 1933, almost immediately set up concentration camps and outlawed opposing political parties.

AS THE THIRD DAY'S session opened, the four-power court ruled that Jew-baiter Julius Streicher was sane and must stand trial, and denied a defence motion which asked postponement of the trial of Martin Bormann, Hitler's missing deputy, who is being tried in absentia.

For the first time since the trial opened two days ago, the accused German leaders appeared in high spirits. Smiling all the time, Reichsmarshal Goering chatted animatedly with defence counsel. Rudolf Hess, who has had only a vacant stare for most of the court proceedings, laughed for the first time as he talked with former foreign minister von Ribbentrop. From the stern high command generals, Wilhelm Keitel and Alfred Jodl, were smiling.

SEVERAL HUNDRED Reich documents selected from the file of more than 2,000 amassed by Allied investigators will outline for the German own words the scheming and aggression by which Hitler and his henchmen led the world into the Second Great War, said Col. Robert Storey, an assistant United States prosecutor.

The prisoners were in the box well before court convened promptly at 10 a.m., and they gazed with interest at the large white screen at the end of the courtroom, on which the prosecution intends to project motion pictures of Nazidom in its hey-day—more evidence against the German leaders. The films are a Nazi product.

ANOTHER ASSISTANT United States prosecutor, Ralph C. Albrecht, offered a chart of the construction of the Nazi party, and the defendants with the exception of Goering, leaned forward and watched the blackboard with great interest.

Prosecutor Albrecht was attempting to establish the chain of the Nazi party command and prove the leaders could be only National Socialists. The chart showed how each defendant fitted into the system and the part each played. He noted that Goering and Hess were Hitler's chosen successors—and Hess leaned forward and looked inquiringly at Goering, seated beside him.

IN CAPTURED DOCUMENTS the prosecution will attempt to show that the Nazi leaders convict themselves.

The fate of thousands more Nazis in Allied hands depends on the outcome of the trial—prisoners such as the SS men, the gestapo, the German general staff, the Nazi cabinet and others in Nazi-dominated organization.

Pair Are Charged With 1928 Murder

SASKATOON, Nov. 22.—(CP)—Albert Sewell Goulet of Vancouver and Emil Joseph Gauthier of Terrace, B.C., yesterday were charged with the murder of Mike Pilawski of Saskatoon on Oct. 9, 1928. The men were remanded until Nov. 29, by Justice of the Peace F. E. Gurpy in Royal Canadian Mounted Police court here.

The body of Pilawski, known as Mike Harrison, was found shortly after he was murdered beside the Canadian National Railway track, east and one-half miles northeast of Saskatoon. The head was lying on a bundle of blood-stained newspapers.

Gauthier gave himself up to RCMP at Terrace, B.C., several weeks ago. He said he wished to give himself up as he had been with another man who had committed a murder just outside Saskatoon in 1928.

A mounted policeman from Saskatoon was sent to Terrace and brought Gauthier back here. He was held at Prince Albert while RCMP were seeking the other man.

Scottish Brides Here by Summer

GLASGOW, Nov. 22.—(Reuters)—The majority of the 25,000 to 30,000 Scottish brides of Canadian servicemen should be in Canada by the spring or summer of next year, Col. Victor Gill, an officer in charge of civilian repatriation, said yesterday.

Fatal Blaze

had been left undamaged by fire. Taken outside, she was given artificial respiration with the fire department pulmotor, and shortly afterward rushed by Smith's ambulance to the Royal Alexandra hospital where she was pronounced dead on arrival.

She had suffered extensive burns about the head and shoulders, police stated.

Police believed that Miss Clausen was awakened by the flames in the room. They said she may have arisen from the studio lounge used as a bed and, overcome by smoke, collapsed on the easy chair. A friend, Miss Margaret Quinn of room 41, Shasta apartments, said the fatally burned young woman was in the habit of smoking in her room.

THE FIRE WAS discovered first by Mrs. A. Grace, whose room is opposite that of Miss Clausen. Police said Mrs. Grace observed the smoke coming from about the door of room 27, and immediately notified the janitor, Albert A. Smith, who pulled the house alarm.

Mr. Smith rushed to the door of the smoking room and called Miss Clausen by name. He received no answer and, believing she was on duty with the night shift at the hospital, left the door of the room closed to prevent the fire's spreading.

Mrs. Smith, who was under a doctor's care Thursday suffering shock, had to cross the street in light clothing in her effort to phone the fire department.

When police arrived, the top floor of the building was filled with smoke, although the fire itself was conquered before the flames spread to room 27.

AFTER THE INVESTIGATION, police said the fire started in the studio lounge, where Miss Clausen slept.

The deceased woman's mother and a brother reside near Prince Albert, police said. A sister lives in that town also.

The body was removed to the Howard & McBride funeral home. The funeral arrangements will be announced later.

Miss Clausen was born in Stavanger, Norway, according to friends. She had been employed with the Macdonald for the last 10 years, apart from two years spent with the Miller Contracting company and the Wartime Prices and Trade Board.

SHE WAS FETED at a surprise birthday party staged by associated workers in honor of her 40th birthday about two weeks ago. She took a keen interest in music and literature.

There are two married sisters, Mrs. Erie Hadley, Beardmore, Ont., and Mrs. Melvin Closter, Prince Rupert, B.C.

The family came over from Norway in 1905.

Martin, a brother, in the RCAF, is attending university at Toronto. Howard and McBride funeral home is in charge of burial arrangements.

Atom War

United Nations ought to review their charter in the light of discoveries made about atomic energy which were not before us when the charter was drawn up."

Nothing, Mr. Eden added, shows more clearly the hold that "nationalism has on us all than the decision" of the San Francisco conference to retain the power of veto. He suggested that the United Nations review the veto clause again, saying he hoped that they will decide that the retention of that power is an anachronism in the modern world."

SWITCHING to relations with Russia, the former foreign secretary said "no one would deny there has been an increase of suspicion and distrust between the Soviet Union and the other two great partners, Britain, the United States and ourselves."

He deplored this suspicion and said he was convinced that future peace depended upon understanding between the three big powers.

"WE WANT THE FULLEST Russian participation in world affairs on equal terms," he added. "We know Russia's arrangements are not aimed against us. We surely ask her to believe that our arrangements are not aimed against her."

Explaining that Russia had "gone very far in making arrangements with all her neighbors," Mr. Eden said the house that the Russians were concerned over "a possible resurgence of German plans for domination of Europe."

"THE RUSSIANS are not as convinced as some people that the Nazi spirit is entirely dead," he added.

Mr. Eden said, however, it was difficult to get information out of Russia and territories under Soviet control.

"I would beg our Russian friends," he said, "to believe they could make no greater contribution to real understanding between our countries than to allow foreign correspondents in the territory or in territory under their control, the same full freedom as is allowed Britain correspondents here."

The house cheered.

"We have got to get to know each other better and that involves freedom to speak and to comment across frontiers. Drop those barriers, remove the curtain, you will blow away in one gust much of those black fogs of suspicion."

Mr. Eden referred to events in Iran. Mr. Eden cited reports that Soviet authorities had turned back Iranian troops sent to deal with the outlaw Kashgai tribe and would not be reconciled with the Tehran declaration of 1943 nor with the British-Soviet-Iranian treaty of 1942.

MR. EDEN said he was afraid the present incident was "not the only occasion when the Soviets refused permission to the Persians to move troops and gendarmerie in an area under their control, and in those circumstances I view surprise that suspicions have been raised."

Russia, he contended, should make it plain that she is not object to the freemovement of Iranian troops in their own area.

OPENING THE LABOR government's debate on foreign affairs in the House of Commons on foreign affairs, Mr. Attlee said atomic warfare must explode "the notion back "to an unimaginable extent."

He gave the Commons an account of his recent talks in Washington with President Truman and Prime Minister Mackenzie King on the future control of the atomic bomb.

"In my view, it is impossible to isolate the problem of the atomic bomb from that of the use of other weapons," he said. "The atom bomb is the latest word in destructiveness, but it may not be the last.

"IT HAS BROUGHT home to us as nothing else has done, that if civilization is to survive, there must be no repitition of the first and second world wars."

Referring to his visit to Ottawa following conclusion of the Washington talks, Mr. Attlee said he found "complete agreement as to the deep desire of the Canadian people to do all they could to help this country in the difficult circumstances of the present time."

Throughout his opening remarks, Mr. Attlee pleaded for peace and understanding among nations.

"We desire to promote the use of advances in scientific knowledge for peaceful and humanitarian ends and we declare our willingness to exchange fundamentil knowledge with any nation that will fully reciprocate," he said.

"I ask the house to note the desire for full reciprocity."

Mr. Attlee then declared the United Nations organization—"if all nations are determined to use it—could establish the rule of law to prevent war."

"The atomic bomb is here, not something vague and just to be noticed. I want everyone here and throughout the world to be partners in concerted effort to the success of the United Nations."

He emphasized that no international organization "however carefully framed," would serve unless the nations were resolved to lay aside war and the threat of war as instruments of policy.

"MUTUAL CONFIDENCE is already established over great areas of the world," the prime minister added. "War between Britain and one of the dominions, or one of the dominions with the United States is unthinkable.

"It seems to me that it is the task of statesmen to spread that confidence throughout the whole world."

Then he posed this question to the Commons on the atomic bomb:

"Can it be wise, when the United Nations organization is only just born and is not out of its cradle, to broadcast to the world the methods of making such a destructive weapon?"

He explained that there was not only atomic energy to be dealt with, but "all weapons adopted for mass destruction."

"NO ONE OF THESE weapons," Mr. Attlee said, "has any legitimate place in the armaments necessary for the ordinary purposes of internal security or the protection of a government against lawlessness."

He hoped there would be a "world-wide response" to the principles of the declaration made by himself, Mr. Truman and Mr. King.

"This is a matter which cannot be solved by Britain, Canada and the United States alone. We would have been a disservice to the cause we have at heart if we had tried to do so."

AT ANOTHER POINT, the Prime Minister said:

"I do not believe that in a warring world, except to a very limited extent, there can be a set of Queensbury rules. Such an attempt would be as futile as that at the end of the middle ages to ban the use of gunpowder."

Transients Enter Leave Province

There is a certain number of transients drifting into Alberta, but also quite an official of the provincial government said Thursday. They are not riding the rods as they did in the thirties, the number has not reached alarming proportions, he interpreted semi-officially as a somewhat natural movement following the war.

A large proportion of this number seems to be ex-servicemen "shopping around" in new pastures in which to settle if the inducement is sufficient, or return to their home towns and their old jobs if not.

It is also apparent that not a small number of displaced war workers, with their occupations gone, are "shopping around" in much the same way as the ex-service people.

While, therefore, in the opinion of authorities there may be a number of transients on the road, many of them travelling as economically as possible, they are not indigents.

Such anxiety as authorities profess is with regard to the dimensions the movement may assume if these "tourists" do not settle into employment at some stage of their travels—and that an early one.

B. C. Indians Out on Record Fishing Strike

VANCOUVER, Nov. 22.—(CP)—British Columbia's longest strike on record is still going on in the fishing industry after 15 years.

Alex Gordon, fishermen's union official, told the Vancouver Trades and Labor Council (AFL) that 15 years and 5 strikes ago Chief Coola had a dispute with a fishing company over the price of spring salmon, and promptly stopped fishing.

"And they haven't caught a spring salmon since," he added.

Gen. MacArthur Now Ready for Japs in Canada

OTTAWA, Nov. 22.—(CP)—General MacArthur, as Allied Supreme Commander in Japan, has information the Canadian government he was prepared to receive, just as soon as shipping arrangements could be made, the thousands of Japanese who are to be deported from Canada. Labor Minister Mitchell told the Commons last night.

In presenting his labor department estimates the minister said 10,034 persons of Japanese origin had indicated in a recent survey their desire to return to Japan. However since the signing of the Japanese surrender many had asked that their request be cancelled and the government proposed to review these requests.

Of those asking to be sent to their homeland, 6,844 actually signed the requests, the minister said and the remainder were dependent children under 16 years of age.

Nazis Give $10,000 For Use of Victims

FORT CUSTER, Mich., Nov. 22.—(AP)—German prisoners of war here have donated $10,147 to the International Red Cross to be used among victims of German concentration camps regardless of race, religion or nationality. The men saved the money from the 80-cent daily wages they receive in camp.

Santa Claus Finds Staunch Defender

TORONTO, Nov. 22.—(CP)—Rev. Dr. Stanley Russell, minister of Deer Park United church, yesterday defended the Santa Claus legend, attacked in Ottawa Tuesday by Maj.-Gen. Brock Chisholm, deputy health minister. "Those of us who grew up in Queen Victoria's reign remember how the world produced an unusual number of fine, brave women and men who were fed on those supposedly vicious buildings made available for housing of veterans, will participate.

OTHER ORGANIZATIONS likely to be represented are the Home and Taxpayers' Association and community leagues.

"We were told last week that eight units would be available for housing. Now the government tells us we can have four, but next week there will likely be none available", one Legion official said.

"It is time for drastic action in order that the government of Canada will really awaken to the needs of Edmonton veterans," he added.

Requests that the Dominion government refrain from establishing a permanent tuberculosis hospital contrary to the city's zoning bylaw was made by Mayor Ainlay in a telegram Thursday to the Rt. Hon. W. L. Mackenzie King, prime minister of Canada.

THE REQUEST IS BEING made following the unanimous decision of city council Monday afternoon opposing the establishment of a permanent tuberculosis hospital at the Jesuit College.

Text of the telegram follows: "Re my telegram November 13 to Acting Prime Minister J. L. Ilsley regarding the Indian tubercular hospital proposed to be established at Edmonton Jesuit College. Our city solicitor now informs us that the hospital would be situated in the R1 family dwelling district, and our zoning bylaw does not permit the establishment of a hospital in such a district, except by special sanction of the city zoning appeal board."

"It is realized that the crown has always been careful to comply with city bylaws in regard to local conditions except in emergency. During the war the city was happy to co-operate with your government whenever it was considered advisable to set aside existing regulations, but as the emergency is now over and since there is strong feeling against a permanent tubercular hospital being established in this location, the city council by resolution requests your government to refrain from establishing such permanent hospital in this district contrary to our zoning bylaw."

(Sgd.) H. D. AINLAY, Mayor.

A COPY OF THE TELEGRAM is sent also to Hon. James A. MacKinnon, minister of trade and commerce, and member of parliament for Edmonton West.

Only four of the commodious redwood buildings surrounding the former Jesuit College will be available to local housing officials for conversion into suites, according to a telegram received Thursday by A. Arnold, national housing official for Edmonton. Mr. Arnold, Mr. Nicholls, national director of housing, in conversion into temporary suites are

The buildings designated for conversion are the 5 with gables and immediately west of the main building on 115 avenue and 128 street.

When it was first proposed that the redwood buildings be used for conversion to suites authorities had hoped that all of them would become available and a valuable contribution made to solution of Edmonton housing problem.

HOWEVER WHEN it was announced that the college was to be taken over by the department of national health for use as a tuberculosis hospital for Indians, the local office of the National Housing Act said that only eight of them could be used.

Definite announcement Wednesday that three hospital units would be placed in the buildings came as a severe shock to local organizations, which had been battling for months for permission to use them as housing, and who had protested vigorously to Ottawa against the establishment of a hospital in this residential area.

Until receipt of Wednesday morning's telegram, however, it was still hoped that eight of the buildings would be converted into suites, but the number has now been reduced to four, so that at the most only 32 families will find shelter in these quarters.

Local and Ottawa authorities are now considering the method of conversion to be adopted to make the huts into living quarters.

HON. BROOKE CLAXTON, Dominion minister of health and welfare, is being asked by Mayor Ainlay for some explanation of the decision from eight to four in the number of buildings at the site that are being made available for conversion into accommodation units.

On November 13 last former mayor, John W. Fry, had been informed by Mr. Claxton that eight buildings were being released for conversion, and that the release was being made following a meeting of departmental representatives at Ottawa. A contingency on the release was that some of the buildings would have to be surrendered to the government on July 1, 1946.

The following is the text of Mayor Ainlay's telegram to Mr. Claxton:

"REFERENCE TO YOUR letter November 13 to Former Mayor Fry notice recommendation by meeting of representatives of departments concurred that eight redwood buildings would be released for occupancy".

"Press news Wednesday stated only four of these buildings would be available. Would you please give explanation for change?"

CITY COUNCIL, at a special meeting Monday afternoon, unanimously adopted a resolution by Ald. James H. Ogilvie instructing the city commissioners to take action against the Dominion government for abandonment of the hospital plan, because the operation of a hospital in the area was contrary to the city's zoning regulations.

The Jesuit hospital district is a B-two family residential district, and the approval, of the zoning board is necessary before a hospital can be operated in the district.

"WE HAVE NO official word," said Hon. Dr. W. W. Cross, health minister, Wednesday, referring to the Dominion government's decision regarding disposal of Jesuit College buildings.

The Dominion minister of health, Hon. Brooke Claxton, was reported as saying there will be a 100-bed hospital for war veteran tuberculosis patients, a 100-bed hospital for white patients, and a 200-bed hospital for Indians. The first and last of these are responsibilities of Dominion departments.

"Without having gone into it," said the provincial minister, "I can't say how much use to us a hundred beds will be. We already have 225 patients in the General hospital and a considerable waiting list. We have a room at the provincial sanatarium at Keith not yet in use, but it is only a 50-bed room so even another 100 beds would do very little to improve the situation.

HAD THE HON. J. L. Ilsley kept his word, originally given an Edmonton delegation to Ottawa about the Jesuit College buildings, there would have been little in the way of an emergency housing problem in Edmonton, W. J. Williams, M.L.A., secretary-manager of the Canadian Legion here said.

Mr. Williams was commenting on the official announcement by Health Minister Claxton in parliament Wednesday, in which he stated that three separate hospitals for tubercular patients would be operated on the Jesuit College site.

"Mr. Ilsley promised to make all buildings at the Jesuit College available for housing purposes as soon as Oct. 1944 and later countermanded his own order," Mr. Williams said.

"THE REASON GIVEN for the change was that the buildings were urgently need for a military hospital.

"We disputed this contention, which we claim has been clearly supported by the fact there have never been more than 40 soldier patients treated there since the military hospital went into operation.

"Had the buildings been turned over for emergency housing at that time 300 families could have been accommodated. Instead of that, practically all the units have lain idle for about nine months, while returned men and their families have prowled the streets and been searching for any kind of accommodation," Mr. Williams declared.

THE LEGION HAD protested when it learnt the proposal to hospitalize tubercular Indians in Edmonton.

"We did not feel then, nor do we feel now that the Jesuit College is a proper place for an Indian hospital. The outcome is just another example of chaos and inefficiency at Ottawa over the housing needs of Edmonton," he concluded.

Plans to Speed House Business Are Discussed

OTTAWA, Nov. 22.—(CP)—The matter of expedition of business before the Commons so as to conclude the present session of parliament next month was discussed yesterday by Prime Minister Mackenzie King at a meeting with opposition leaders and party whips and today at a Liberal party caucus.

Following the caucus Mr. King told The Canadian Press he had stressed the importance of expediting the work of the session so the business of the house could be concluded this year and a new session started early in 1946.

Perjury Hearing Gets Underway

It is alleged by the crown that evidence given by DeJager at a police court hearing before Magistrate A. I. Miller, K.C., was false and intended to mislead the court.

The charge against the accused in the lower court was that he failed to return to the army after an automobile accident. DeJager won an acquittal on that charge on his testimony that he had signed a David's coffee shop at the corner of 106 avenue and 97 street between 8:55 and 6:15 in the afternoon, and was not at the scene of the accident."

The hearing is proceeding.

Officer of RAF Is Posted Missing With Stolen Plane

LONDON, Nov. 22.—(Reuters)—Pilot Officer J. E. Adams, 24-year-old Canadian who flew in Canada before the war, has been posted as missing from the RAF fighter station at Molesworth, Huntingdonshire, from which a Gloster Meteor jet-propelled aircraft took off and vanished early Tuesday.

Adams is believed to have been at the controls when the plane, of a type which recently set a world's speed record of 606 miles an hour, was flown from the station with enough gas to take it about 500 miles.

A native of Hong Kong, Adams went to Canada with his parents before the war. After the outbreak of war, he came to Britain and volunteered for the RAF.

Japanese Leaders Give Up to Allies Under New Order

TOKYO, Nov. 22.—(AP)—Baron Gen. Sadao Araki, so-called "high priest of the militarists" and Yoshihisa Kuzuu, head of the once-feared Black Dragon Society, surrendered at Japanese police today.

Araki said "the trial will be the best opportunity for clearing the Japanese position, which has been misunderstood by the world."

He and Kuzuu were two of the 11 Japanese leaders ordered arrested earlier this week by Gen. MacArthur. A third, Baron Genshigeru Honjo, committed harakiri to escape arrest.

Many New Products Feature Industrial Conversion Plan

By FRANK FLAHERTY

OTTAWA, Nov. 22.—(CP)—At least 100 major products never before manufactured in Canada will be produced when Canadian manufacturers complete their reconversion plans, Reconstruction Minister Howe said yesterday in the Commons.

HE GAVE THE HOUSE an outline of the operations of the reconstruction department on his estimates and placed particular stress on industrial reconversion.

After he spoke a discussion arose over the future of Research Enterprise Ltd., at Leaside, Toronto suburb, and Mr. Howe said plans had been made for private companies to take over some of the buildings and these companies would provide employment for about 3,800 persons. The plans might not be completed until next April.

AT THE NIGHT SITTING, Labor Minister Mitchell presented his labor department estimates and said Canada would not attain the goal of high employment in peacetime unless management and labor walked "up the same road together."

Information on plans of private industry which Mr. Howe gave in his speech was based on applications for depreciation on account of capital expenditures and the list was incomplete. It showed, however, that the plants covered by applications planned larger production after reconversion than at the height of war production.

IN 791 PLANTS, whose products had a gross selling value of $946,000,000 in 1939 and $2,482,080,000 in 1944, production with a selling value of $2,682,000,000 was planned after conversion. These same plants exported $235,000,000 worth of products in 1939 and $286,000,000 in 1944. Their planned export for the future was $408,000,000.

"Employment in these 791 plants amounted to 179,000 in 1939 and rose to 345,000 in 1944," said Mr. Howe. "These companies expect that as a result of their reconversion plans they will provide additional employment for some 22,000 persons within one year after the new capital expenditures have been made.

"IN ADDITION to employment in the plants themselves, there reconversion plans will provide employment for many thousands in the construction and supply industries.

"A considerable part of the expenditure will be made in areas where the employment problem has been aggravated by large lay-offs of war workers and the need for absorbing returning service men.

"For example, in the Montreal area, $22,000,000 will be spent; in Vancouver, $4,100,000; in Winnipeg, $904,000."

NEW PRODUCTS to be produced included inter-city buses, pre-fabricated houses, glass fabrics, bearings, plastics, yarns, resins, medicines and chemicals.

"The government investment in plant capacity, including tooling costs, is approximately $722,000,000. Of this amount, the addition it is estimated that private industry has expended $500,000,000 in plant expansion.

"It is expected that within the next six-month period all government-owned machine tools, with the exception of single purpose equipment which cannot be converted to peace-time uses, will have been disposed of to private industry.

Escaped Man Makes Appeal To Newspaper

WINDSOR, Ont., Nov. 22.—(CP)—A dramatic, fiction-like touch to a province-wide search for six prisoners who escaped Essex County jail Tuesday came yesterday when a letter purportedly written by one of the escaped men was delivered to City Editor Norman Hull of the Windsor Daily Star.

SIGNED BY RAYMOND HAGGERTY, under sentence of 12 years for attempted murder and armed robbery, the letter was brought to the Star by Bernard Haggerty of Windsor, a brother of the escaped prisoner. It promised that "a favorable answer will bring my surrender within 24 hours."

Bernard Haggerty told Hull that "My brother handed me this letter half an hour ago."

Raymond Haggerty was sentenced several months ago to a total of 12 years in Kingston Penitentiary on a charge of attempted murder of a six-armed shopkeeper here during a holdup. He had been held in Essex County jail pending an appeal. The appeal was heard yesterday by the Ontario Court of Appeal and judgment was reserved.

THE LETTER SAID the writer would surrender to "the proper authorities" if, among other things, a promise was made in the Star that "I will be submitted within one week to a lie detector test and questioned about the charge for which I was sentenced."

Another provision was that results of the tests be made public and if they "show my innocence, the charge of jail-breaking be dropped in view of the fact that an innocent man has been incarcerated for the past nine months."

"Perhaps the Windsor Star would defray the expense of this test in order that the cause of justice be upheld," the letter concluded over the signature of "Raymond J. Haggerty."

Mitchell Says Co-Operation Industry Need

OTTAWA, Nov. 22.—(CP)—Canada will not attain the goal of high employment in peacetime "unless management and labor walk up the road together," Labor Minister Mitchell said last night in the commons.

"Bickerings and strikes will be a millstone on reconstruction, which is only possible on the basis of just and friendly partnership between capital and labor," he said, introducing his departmental estimates for war and demobilization activities.

He expressed hope the Ford strike at Windsor, Ont., soon would be settled.

MR. MITCHELL said that as a result of the wartime labor regulations there were only 199 strikes and lockouts in 1944, compared with 402 in 1943. The regulations had advanced the development of trade unions as bargaining representatives. National and regional boards had dealt with 3,113 applications for certification and granted 2,006.

"A great deal of work has been done under the Conciliation and Labor Act in the way of preventing industrial disputes becoming serious", he said. "I believe the department of labor's activity is steadily increasing in value to workers, industry and the country".

THERE NOW WERE 382 labor-management production committees in industries employing 236,000 workers. The government intended to encourage the formation of more committees.

The wartime wages control order and price stabilization had formed a barrier against inflation. There had been adjustments where wages were unfairly low and the regional and national boards had increased workers' incomes with out jeopardizing price stabilization. The wage rate index was up to 104.7 in 1944, compared to 105.3 in 1939.

MR. MITCHELL'S machinery had been set up to speed the release of key personnel for industry from the armed forces. Because of the need of housing, special efforts were made to release building trades workers and workers for the production of building materials.

Report to Annual Meeting

DR. G. J. HOPE

WALTER C. CATON

Northern Alberta Branch of AMA Reports Great Progress in Year

Marking the completion of the most progressive and eventful year in the history of the Northern Alberta branch of the Alberta Motor Association, many members of the organization gathered in the Masonic Temple Wednesday evening for their annual meeting.

DURING THE 12 MONTHS ended Oct. 31, the AMA added 2,207 members to its ranks swelling total membership to 7,746, an increase of more than 70 per cent over the total membership at the same date last year, it was announced by secretary-manager Walter C. Caton.

Giving his report on membership and service the secretary read a letter from Russel E. Singer, general manager of the American Automobile Association, advising that the Northern Alberta branch now ranks 16th in the list of automobile clubs on the whole continent.

MEMBERS UNANIMOUSLY endorsed a resolution, presented by the executive, asking the provincial government to implement its highway development program as outlined in the past war reconstruction report, as quickly as possible.

Speaking on the resolution, Dr. G. J. Hope, president of the AMA, said, "During the time hostilities were being prosecuted, it was essential that the efforts of our people should be directed to the utmost to bring the war to the victorious conclusion so happily achieved. Domestic issues and problems were relegated to the future. Of necessity only an absolute minimum of highway construction and maintenance was carried on".

HE POINTED OUT that during the last seven years the revenues derived by the Alberta government from motor vehicles were more than double the expenditure on highways.

"Not only was no progress made in developing and improving highway facilities but many highways have deteriorated to such an extent as to require complete reconstruction and the whole system is certainly inadequate to the present needs of the people of Alberta. The highways are certainly failing to meet the standard required for the development of a lucrative tourist traffic," the president stated.

Regarding the trans-Canada highway he said "If we take advantage of our opportunities and construct a proper system of highways, ensuring that great highway with neighboring states and provinces and such as is required by the people of Alberta for their own economic needs, then Alberta has a chance to benefit from the development which we think is likely to follow the opening up of the North West Territories.

"IF WE FAIL to develop our own highway system, we not only continue to operate our own motor vehicles at excessive and uneconomical costs but the trans-Canada highway might just as well be built in Timbuktu as far as any advantage to Alberta is concerned".

The resolution which has been forwarded to Premier Ernest Manning asks the government to start as soon as possible on its proposed highway program involving the expenditure of $120,000,000.

Endorsation of the resolution by the other branches of the Association will be asked at the annual meeting to be held in Calgary Dec. 8.

In his report the president referred to the past year of "phenomenal growth and progress" in the organization and said it was matched by an almost unparalleled financial position for such an organization.

J. GORDON BUTLER read the financial statement in the absence of Roy L. Greene, chairman of the financial and management committee. Assets of the club approach the $50,000 mark, including about $35,000 in Victory Bonds.

The president paid tribute to the executive and staff of the AMA and informed members that the property and new building of the organization are already paid for, with some extension planned in the near future.

The president also referred to the work of the AMA in connection with the safety patrols by some 200 city boys and girls. "The efficiency of the patrol can readily be judged when I state that during the seven years it has been in operation there has never been an accident of any kind where the patrol has been operating."

Walter Caton, giving his service and membership report, pointed out the increase in country membership in the AMA.

"The most significant and encouraging feature in our membership is that the Edmonton branch enjoys a more representative membership today for the territory we serve than at any previous time. Practically every rural district has better representation, which of course is due to a proportionally large increase in country members and country membership are just about even with 48.1 per cent. of the total from the country and 51.9 per cent. from the city."

Votes of thanks were extended by the meeting to the press, radio, city and provincial police, civic officials and all organizations who have assisted the association in promoting its objectives of safety and service to members and the public at large.

Four new directors were appointed at the meeting. They are Earle E. MacQuarrie, R. H. Turnbull, Dr. W. E. Webber, and Bert W. Webster.

FORMER DIRECTORS who will carry on again this year include Lyall A. Barrie, Alfred Blyth, J. Gordon Butler, Walter A. Crawford, W. F. Empey, R. A. Godson, C. H. Grant, KC, R. L. Greene, A. J. Gregory, Dr. G. J. Hope, Norman S. Mackie, D. McAfee, Dr. M. A. McIntyre, R. R. MacKillop, Elmer M. Roper, M.L.A., E. J. Smith, Howard Stutchbury, and Fred Turnbull.

Election of the president for 1946 will take place at the next regular meeting of the directors.

MacKenzie Named Labor President

CALGARY, Nov. 22.—(CP)—Duncan B. MacKenzie, Calgary motion picture projectionist, was re-elected president of the Alberta Federation of Labor at the annual convention here yesterday. Gordon G. Cushing, secretary of the Calgary Trades and Labor Council, defeated Malcolm Ainslie, vice-president of the Edmonton Council, for the post of provincial secretary, the vote being 65 to 50. Mr. Ainslie is retiring secretary.

Election of vice-president is left to each of the larger trades in the province.

THE CONVENTION endorsed a 40-hour week, with no reduction in present weekly pay, and said the eventual goal of labor was a six-hour day and a five-day week.

At the morning session the convention called for the establishment of a provincial department of labor with a labor minister.

Another resolution endorsed by the delegates said the sole guilty party in the question of minors and interdicts being served in beer parlors ought to be the minors and interdicts themselves, and not the beverage dispensers.

Deer pressed for full government road programs instead of piecemeal projects and also asked that deductions in pay cheques in connection with family allowances be changed. As the present system entails considerable bookkeeping the resolution urged that deductions be made at Ottawa and family allowance cheques be mailed from there.

The meeting was opposed to establishment of colonies of immigrants. Freight rate structures will be studied with a view to obtaining more equitable rates for this province, which now pays near peak rates.

PRESSURE IS BEING brought on the provincial government by various groups when R. E. Ansley, minister of education stated in saying that provincial revenue was only around twenty-five millions annually. Of this sum eighty per cent was used for public health services, public debt, education, works, etc, leaving only twenty per cent for the rest of the government's program.

The provincial governments would take a strong stand in putting forward suggestions at the coming Dominion-Provincial conference at Ottawa, he said.

From Lethbridge two long resolutions were presented by W. T. Hill. The first urged action by the Dominion and provincial governments in starting construction of the proposed St. Mary's River dam near Spring Coulee which would provide water to irrigate 345,000 acres and contribute materially to the welfare of the province.

THE SECOND LETHBRIDGE resolution pointed out as production of grain had been emphasized by bonuses that the hog-grain ratio was out of balance and hoggs production was drastically reduced in the west.

The resolution urged that the federal government pay extra bonuses and make concessions to western hog and livestock raisers to offset their present disadvantages; the government should also try to arrange for Britain to take for a five-year period of minimum of 375,000,000 pounds and a maximum of half a million pounds of bacon at an advanced price that would be comparable to grain prices and re-establish the hog-grain ratio, thus stabilizing the hog and stock industry for a period of five years.

ALL OFFICERS were re-elected: President, J. B. Holden, Vegreville; first vice-president, H. Lewis, Drumheller; second vice-president, W. T. Hill, Lethbridge; secretary, L. Fitzallan, Vegreville; treasurer, L. V. Cairns, KC, Edmonton; directors, E. E. Peterson, Calgary; W. H. Tesskey, Rocky Mountain House; N. W. Allin, Leduc; W. T. Hill, Lethbridge; Felix A. Hamel, Red Deer; H. S. Trame, Lacombe; C. T. Pals, Castor; A. L. Hovel, Camrose.

Next meeting of the board will be held in Red Deer on June 6.

At Coming Session

Rural Electrification Plan To Come Before Legislature

CALGARY, Nov. 22.—(CP)—The whole problem of rural electrification will be discussed when the provincial legislature holds its next session, early in the new year, Hon. C. E. Gerhart, minister of municipal affairs, said here yesterday in an address to the 37th annual convention of municipal districts.

THE MINISTER, addressing the afternoon session on the opening of the three-day convention, also announced his new deputy minister succeeding A. W. Scott, who has retired recently, would be J. W. Judge, veteran civil servant.

Mr. Judge has been acting deputy and he is a member of the provincial board of assessment and the assessment committee for the province.

Of rural electrification Mr. Gerhart said one fact-finding report had already been completed by the two-year-old provincial power committee, set up to find out what costs of such a scheme would be and that a second should be completed "about the end of the month."

HE INTIMATED neither of these would be made public at present, but would be contained in the report of the government which is to be presented at the next session of the Legislature. The next session will be held in 1946, probably in January, he said.

The minister was questioned closely by the delegates following his address, with one of the main subjects the control of farm dogs.

He said the government had been requested repeatedly by the Sheep Breeders' Association to take action in controlling the dogs, because of the heavy destruction of sheep, but believed it was a task for the municipal districts.

NO RESOLUTION was drawn up and no immediate action was taken.

One delegate asked Mr. Gerhart whether there was any plan in view to make the boundary lines of school divisions and municipal districts the same.

He would like to see the two boards all as one, he said. Because the boundaries were not quite equal it "causes friction."

The minister replied that "perhaps one answer to that would be the setting up of one government." He said a liaison committee had been set up by the departments of Education and municipal affairs to discuss the problem.

THERE WERE two other solutions: (1) "a province-wide mill rate for a minimum of education (this was met with loud cries of 'Hear, Hear' and cheers); (2) make the boundaries co-terminous."

The minister gave a lengthy explanation of events leading up to his dismissal a few days ago of the 10 councillors of the municipal district of Vermilion River.

He said it had been necessary to add a 10th division after the district had been formed, but did not at that time think this would cause any great difficulty, as other districts had an "even number" of councillors.

IN THE BEGINNING the council chose Marwayne as their seat, he said, and he approved this but should have consulted to build an office without taking a plebiscite, and began the basement and had spent about $2,000 when opposition began, with a threat of an injunction. The council therefore held a plebiscite on the subject, which was turned down. While this was going on, the whole election was under investigation and eight of the 10 councillors were ultimately unseated by a judge.

"However he did not give his judgment until late in the spring and in the meantime the terms of some of the councillors had expired. Some who were to be unseated were re-elected and when the judgment came down five were put out. An administrator had to be put in to call an election and he also took a plebiscite on the money by-law for the building. At the same time he gathered an 'expression of opinion' from taxpayers to find the most preferred site for the municipal office."

THERE WAS NOTHING to force the council to abide by this he said, but the government's impression had been that it would.

Kitscoty was chosen and the council declined to abide with the wish of the people. "Again I won't say why," said the minister.

Further deadlocks ensued on the question of an office and finally he evicted the council entirely with the municipal staff.

THE MINISTER said he had previously suggested to the association at past conventions that is not up an advisory committee to deal with such problems, but this had not been done, and he repeated the suggestion. The committee could interview councils which were deadlocked, "so we don't have to step in. Some guidance from this association might have helped them."

Today in Europe

made of wood. But the paternal and benevolent government of Mr. Per-Albin Hansson doesn't allow its well-behaved citizens to consume any fancy drinks except food; and you cannot circumvent this law, as used to be done in London, by having a sandwich—it must be hot food. So, usually, the waiter produces a plate of peas which get more tepid as the evening progresses and they are passed around from table to table.

Spirits, wine, and tobacco are a government monopoly. The sale of spirits is strictly rationed, because they are in short supply, but because of the benevolence of the government, wine, on the other hand is unrationed, but the stocks are limited. Beer also is unrationed, but it is only 2 per cent beer.

SWEDEN IS VERY short of petrol. Most of the cars are driven by gas-producer units burning charcoal or even wood. The taxi-drivers have which is 75 per cent petrol and 25 per cent wood alcohol. It seems to have gone to their head and some of them drive with even more gusto than usual. Of course, whom I have always previously regarded as the most potentially lethal drivers in the world, Italian taxi-drivers, are confined. The government cannot think it really wrong or they would prohibit it. With typical Swedish moderation, it is decreed that no restaurant may have dancing more than twice a week, and in no case after midnight. Now that the war is over, it is possible that this may be extended till 1 a.m. The Swedes, who are patient and uncomplaining folk, put up with this, though some of them fear that these sort of regulations may have a disquieting effect upon the tourist traffic—if such luxuries as tourist traffic should ever return to Europe.

THOUGH THE SWEDES did much philanthropic work during the war—and, indeed, at one time offered to admit all the Danish Jews whom the Germans were threatening to deport to Germany—there is one small blot in their copybook of which todey they are ashamed. To check the inflow of Jewish refugees, they inserted a new entry on the application forms which all travelers must fill out before obtaining a visa. The new entry demanded the race of the applicant.

Today, the liberal-minded Social Democrats of Sweden regret this and have withdrawn the question, but they are not powerful enough to scrap the forms. They have merely blacked them out, and if you hold the form up to the light, you can still discern the evidence of this unlucky aberration from the high-minded liberalism which Sweden would prefer to follow.

BEFORE I LEFT London, I asked my tailor to make me a suit. He is one of the best tailors in London—he had no material and no cutters. The Swedes are famous tailors, and when I went to the leading tailor in Stockholm he undertook to make me a suit of clothes in four days. When I told him that I had not got that long to stay, he said he received by King Gustaf, he undertook to make it in two days.

It is the first new suit I have had for two years. It is made of beautiful English cloth and the cut is as good as that of Savile Row. When I asked the tailor the price, he said "225 Kronor" (£25 dollars), and before I had time to think whether this was a lot or little he said: "It's the most we are allowed to charge."

It made it seem terribly cheap. The Swedes are not only good businessmen. They are also fine salesmen.

Vancouver to Train TCA Pacific Fliers

VANCOUVER, Nov. 22.—(CP)—The Province, in a newspaper story yesterday, said that Vancouver's airport will be used soon after the start of 1946 to train Trans-Canada Air Lines pilots and crews to fly giant passenger liners over the Pacific.

The article said a small fleet of converted Lancaster bombers will be stationed here for the training program and that veteran pilots who now fly Lancasters across the Atlantic will serve as instructors.

It added: "Vancouver airport is being organized for the start of training and scheduled operation of trans-Pacific air routes. Planes will begin taking off on regular flights from Vancouver to Australia about this time next year."

"The converted Lancasters will be used only for training purposes.

"When TCA is ready to fly passengers across the Pacific it will use special DC-4's converted to use four Rolls-Royce engines."

Neither airport nor TCA officials here would comment on the article.

Muto Is "Amazed" Yamashita Tried As War Criminal

MANILA, Nov. 22.—(BUP)—Gen. Tokuyuki Yamashita was betrayed by subordinate officer who failed to obey his humanitarian orders, Lt. Gen. Akiro Muto, Yamashita's chief of staff, claimed today.

Muto said he was "amazed" that Yamashita was being tried as a war criminal.

The defence witness, testifying for the second day, said under cross examination that Yamashita had ordered the end of street fighting in Manila but was disobeyed.

From a small chemist shop in Newcastle, England, during the nineteenth century, sealaring men set forth with packets of a new remedy that had outstanding properties for correcting internal ills. They took this new medicine with them wherever they sailed the seven seas.

It was thus that the story of Eno's 'Fruit Salt' spread wherever the British race journeyed. And today, Eno is enthusiastically endorsed by millions of men and women the world over, to help keep them fit when needed.

Take pleasant-tasting Eno in a glass of water before breakfast. Eno helps settle an upset stomach, helps nature free the system of food wastes that often cause constipation and headaches, helps relieve excess gastric acidity. Eno is gentle but effective in its action, safe for young and old alike. Buy a large economical bottle of Eno's 'Fruit Salt' from any druggist today.

Edmonton's Protest

The Edmonton city council has voted unanimously to instruct the city commissioners to exhaust every means, persuasive and legal, to prevent the federal government from using the site and buildings at the former Jesuit College as a hospital for tubercular Indians.

This is no merely formal protest. It represents the indignant view of almost every organization in the city and almost the entire population. It is the voice of 112,000 people.

Surely, in the face of this unanimous and heated remonstrance, Ottawa will not insist upon obdurately and unnecessarily flouting the wishes of an entire city and upon wilfully violating its bylaws and regulations.

There are two hospitals in the North ready and suitable for the treatment of tubercular Indians. These places are nearer than Edmonton to the homes of the patients. In every way they are eminently more adequate to the purpose.

Ottawa's excuse that these northern hospitals cannot be used because doctors and nurses cannot be persuaded to serve in these places is neither relevant nor sensible. When did doctors or nurses ever refuse to go wherever duty called?

Moreover there is a wonderful airplane service to the North which will take passengers to and from Dawson Creek in an hour's time and brings these hospitals almost within commuting distance of the city.

It is hardly conceivable that Ottawa's stubbornness in this matter should persist before the official and unofficial, private and public protests it has encountered here.

V

A Worthy Work

The Allied Arts Council of Edmonton has completed almost three years of effort in this community and on Tuesday night held its second annual meeting to consider its function in peace time.

The council was formed, primarily, to mobilize artistic talent for war purposes. Nevertheless, so worthy have been the results and so interesting the discoveries made in the course of its work that the disappearance of the council or the cessation of its activities would mean a serious loss to the city and its people and, indeed, to the entire province.

The council has integrated usefully the efforts of many isolated and frequently struggling cultural organizations in Edmonton. It has given impetus and force to their work. It has discovered the existence, here, of much rich talent in young people in many fields of art and it has offered these young people an opportunity to develop their gifts.

In these respects, and in many others, the Allied Arts Council has added infinitely to the potential richness of human life in this community. It has contributed and will contribute many of those cultural factors without which a city cannot be great.

But an organization of this kind, no matter how valuable it is, cannot run along without official recognition and financial support. And since it is a community and provincial undertaking, it is surely entitled to look to both city and province for a measure of assistance.

Edmonton has already appointed a paid director of recreation who is doing a splendid job. Edmonton should also appoint and pay a director of allied arts. For the cultural development of Alberta children is just as important as their physical development. The latter may lengthen their lives. Only the former can deepen them.

The work done by the Allied Arts Council has been worthy and essential work. It must continue. And both province and city should lend whatever aid they can to see that it continues in an effective and unhampered way.

V

Freedom of Speech

There is a vital principle involved in the efforts of some religionists to bring about the dismissal of Major General Chisholm from his federal post as deputy minister of health because of his recent address in Washington.

General Chisholm, it will be remembered, spoke on child psychology and was not entirely complimentary to Christian teaching. He delivered, too, a somewhat scathing attack on Santa Claus.

Now it is quite true that there is a tendency on the part of some civil servants to talk too much in public. From time to time employees of the government make announcements that should properly come from ministers of the crown who are responsible for policy.

It is also true that few Canadian laymen will agree with the tenor of General Chisholm's remarks. There is a tendency towards impatience with scientists who blast too freely into the fundamental religious feelings of the people.

But General Chisholm did not speak in Washington as a civil servant. He spoke as an accredited scientist within his own professional competence. Moreover, he spoke to a gathering of scientists, not to the general public, and was given, at the close of his address, the Lasker Award for distinguished service in the field of mental hygiene.

If the government were stampeded into dismissing General Chisholm, Canada would gain the reputation of suppressing freedom of speech among her scholars.

And democracy stands for freedom of speech whether that speech be good or bad.

Robert Benchley

There has passed away from this curious world in New York a man who amassed a considerable fortune by portraying on radio and screen the foibles and concerns of the average person.

It would be difficult to say that Robert Benchley was a great man or an exceptionally talented one. But he did have the knack of putting into words and actions the perplexities and impulses that everyone feels but few will admit.

Benchley knew how to portray the embarrassments, inadequacies and pretensions of the common man which the common man goes to utmost lengths to cover up.

So many people paid much money to see themselves as others frequently see them.

It would be too much to say that Benchley idealized human folly. But he did make it endearing. And that is a great service in a carping world which usually magnifies human failings instead of trying to understand them.

British naval authorities think the occupation of Japan will last 25 years or more. It will have to if the conversion of the Japanese to democratic principles is to be made real. And nothing less than that will be good enough. All the superficial changes—of leaders, policies and methods—which are now being made under orders from outside could be reversed just as quickly unless the mass of the people become willing and determined supporters of the new order. A new generation will have to grow up before so sweeping a change in the national spirit and ideals can be counted on.

President Truman will be surprised if he reads a despatch sent out from Washington which says he called the conference there to find out how the secret of the atomic bomb can be used to cultivate "trust" among nations. Cultivating trust by threatening to blow manufacturers out of existence would be something new. It was the conduct of aggressively-minded nations the conferees were concerned about. If these can be scared into letting their neighbors alone, that is as much as we can hope for. The bomb is to accomplish. Whether or not the neighbors trust them won't matter much.

HOW TO TORTURE YOUR HUSBAND

Russia Fears Western Ideologies, But We—

Need Not Fear Russia

Although Isolation She Desires Would Give Opportunity for Perfecting New Instruments Of War, Russia desires Only to Develop at Own Pace And Not Too Quickly.

By Lieut. Gen. Sir Douglas W. Brownrigg in The Christian Science Monitor.

ST. PAUL'S CATHEDRAL has a whispering gallery high up in the dome. A word whispered by a visitor echoes and can be heard by a great many listeners.

The world today is one vast whispering gallery; and there are many listeners trying to catch what is being said by those who think they cannot be overheard.

For the mind of the time between the war, we in the British Isles listened with some apprehension to whispers which echoed from Russia; but now it is Russia who is listening for whispers from the West. Mr. Kalinin has said so in his speech first reported to the outside world on Oct. 26.

Today I want to shout and not to whisper, because although shouting is often considered rude it is never looked upon with suspicion; and it is suspicion that I want to try and kill by saying boldly (and perhaps tactlessly) what I believe to be the truth.

IT IS HISTORY and not opinion that Russia was unpopular with the Western democracies after the revolution of 1917, and did not become popular again until Hitler attacked her in June 1941. One of the reasons why so many British people looked for so long with disfavor upon Russia was because Russia had failed more vitally than seemed very logical to the Russians because we ourselves had killed our king without being ostracized. I know quite well that King Charles was beheaded in the seventeenth century, which to us seems a long time ago. But Russians do not notice the passing of time like we do, and in many ways Russia in 1917 was more like England in the seventeenth century. I am not defending either execution; merely saying that only time separated them; and time is not nearly so important in Russia as here. We feared (and rightly feared) the doctrine of Communism; and we thought that Russia was the chief exporter of this unlikeable commodity. At one time this was true; but it has ceased to be true since Trotsky left Russia. Since Marshal Stalin's time the Third International has been abolished, and that was the chief vehicle for the exportation of Communism. And what is just as important, the Orthodox Church is once more recognized in Russia, which is itself the negation of Communism. So far as I know there has been little or no State-controlled interference with the affairs of other nations—save perhaps in what we may call the buffer States.

I DO NOT THINK we have anything to fear from Russia—at any rate for some years to come. But I do think that Russia feels that she has a good deal to fear from the importation of ideologies from the West, and no legislation does Mr. Kalinin. The Russian revolution of 1917 turned the country upside down; and it has only slowly rightedd itself after many false starts and after several wanderings down unprofitable paths. For 25 years the Russian leaders experimented and learned their lessons through trial and error. They are experimenting still. They are not yet reached the stage in State evolution that we have reached and they prefer not to be too closely watched as they make their trials and errors. What is more during that time of experimenting they do not want their nationals to know that some other nations by whose side they have so recently fought as allies, have reached a more advanced stage of evolution than they have yet had time to reach.

For instance, in the Russian army casualties are not reported to the next-of-kin at all. It would perhaps, be unwise of let the Russian soldier think that he is less cared for than his allies' fighting men. He had, therefore, better not mix with his allies more than is absolutely necessary.

The leaders of present-day Russia do not want much contact to be established by those they hope to guide gradually to better things at home with others who have already reached better things abroad. Such mixing would only lead in the long run to discontent, and perhaps a dangerous desire to evolve too quickly. The defeat of Japan may have had the effect of intensifying the feeling of fear against too rapid progress in State management. Japan tried in about 80 years to do what it has taken the Western democracies 800 years to accomplish.

Russia will heed that lesson. She must go slow in her evolution and keep her citizens' attention away from her experiments. She must keep the eyes of her own people on their own jobs and not let them be in a position to compare the present internal situation in Great Russia with that in the more prosperous parts of Europe.

If you will accept this theory of mine, so much else becomes plausible. For instance the garrisoning of distant outposts of Russia by inferior troops becomes clear at once. It is impossible to tailor any composition to fit both male and female vocal cords.

Canadians, when in unmixed company, managed pretty well with O Canada. Certainly the Canadian Mendelssohn turn out an impressive rendition. The trouble starts when the ladies join the gentlemen. Regardless of the enthusiasm at the beginning, the anthem bogs down quickly and long before the singers are in sight of the final "here" most of them are reduced to mere lip moving.

A friend who knows about such things blames all this on sopranos. Every audience, he contends, contains at least one lady who had a year of soloing in a choir. Like an old fire-horse sighting a whiff of smoke, she cannot resist the urge to let loose with a string of high C's when the singing starts. Instinctively, the untrained male singers try to get their voices up more in registers and the result is a musical shambles.

This explanation sounds reasonable enough. There are few more moving anthems than The Star Spangled Banner—when played by a brass band with a well augmented drum corps. But because it is so difficult to sing by mixed voices our neighbors have worked out a good compromise. In large meetings the audience stands at attention while a professional singer does the lyrics. That, at least, surmounted the national anthem problem with dignity. And it seems more human than the only other alternative that comes to mind—passing a law against soprano singing in public places.

Put It in the Bank

Sherbrook Record

It is difficult to understand the mental processes of people who profess to keep considerable sums in their homes instead of depositing in a bank where they could draw a small rate of interest and where they could have greatly increased security.

The risks with keeping large sums of money at home or on the person is that the fact almost inevitably becomes known to others. The house then becomes a marked one for a widening circle.

Also the man or woman who becomes known as one who carries large sums habitually in pockets or purse becomes a marked person, who is inviting the attentions of a hold-up man.

"We've dispatched all orders, sir," replied the manager soothingly: "may I remind you that we specialize in quick service?"

IF YOU DON'T SPLIT your sides laughing at Shirley Temple and her boy-friend in "Kiss and Tell" you're suffering from something more serious than hardening of the arteries.

The movie, "Our Vines Have Tender Grapes," reminds me of a fine line from Edna Jacques' poem about an Ontario hillside village. It runs, "breaking your heart with its sheer loveliness."

This is the kind of picture that makes women weep (and like it). One big air-cool soother bustled for his hanky, too, when the old man's barn and life work, is swept away.

Incidentally, most of the criticism against today's movies is unjustified. There are more good movies—cleaner, finer and better—than ever before. You can't have everything all the time.

I hope to live to see the day when movies depict the life-story of the immortal Robbie Burns.

ONE OF THE BEST suggestions made from coast to coast the Dominion allot one percent of the proposed health grants-in-aid to the provinces for research.

Suppose the nations had allotted just one-quarter of the money used to develop the split-atom bomb for research into cancer, cure, treatment and, above all, prevention of disease.

Cancer gets most of the research money now, though not nearly enough. Old-fashioned rheumatism, or arthritis, if you prefer, is the worst crippler of all. It costs the people of Canada more than any other disease. Yet, because it is a slow killer—because most of its victims lie abed, "out of sight, out of mind"—it gets little attention.

The need for research is all the more real because a considerable percentage of rheumatic get cured Canadian job.

BANTING'S history-making research cost less than $10,000. Just think of it—expenditure of a mere 10 thousand dollars literally meant a new lease of life for millions.

The yeasty penicillin of Fleming and Florey, did most of the work which gave the world penicillin. The modest Australian could have had much! He asked for exactly $1,280 to do the work on this epoch-marking discovery.

Those are only a few examples of what research could do. Incidentally, the greatest of all future fields of research is health and life. health is in relation to mind-over-matter. Faith as big as the tiniest mustard seed is all it takes, world for individuals and nations that all the atom power.

CANADA SPENDS $36 million per year on alcoholic medicines, or over ten times than on alcoholic beverages. A small fraction of that amount devoted to research would make Canada a world leader in this field. Let's wake up and live!

Talking about research: The government might well explain the high cost of penicillin. In some cities customers pay 80 cents per tablet. Fairly funny. Maggee, remembering the wartime grants by the King government of monopolistic rights of manufacture.

I HAVE NOT READ in records, nor heard in Indian lore heretofore that a "pipe of peace" ceremony has been held for the transfer of deer, but comes the story from the Sioux Indian reserve near Fort Qu'Appelle that this was the occurrence recently.

The deer is a pet, it will stay on the reserve, continue to cavort around with Sioux children, and more, he is to be given a special Christmas feed; it is added too, that this deer loves sweet dainties.

The story starts a little over two and a half years ago on the farm of S. V. Tomecko near Lipton Wilbrod Tomecko, the son of "S. V.", was doing a big farmer's job planting up land in preparation to raise wheat for the starving people of Europe, not that he knew about it at the time, but that is what he was actually doing.

HE CAME upon a fawn, apparently an orphan, perhaps deserted by its mother, but more likely orphaned through a bullet by some "sport" hunter who wanted a haunch of venison. He picked up the baby, carried it home, prepared a bottle with a proper rubber nozzle, and he recounts, he had great joy in seeing the fawn grow from a weakling into a fat little fellow that soon followed him around the place like a faithful dog.

Later the pet deer wandered a little further away from the home field on the Tomecko farm, in fact it headed onto surrounding farms, but always came back.

LAST SUMMER it went southward and did not return. Mr. Tomecko heard it had reached the Sioux Indian reserve, and there, had been received by Indian papooses, they had time to play with it, and since the deer decided it would make its home among those happy children.

Mr. Tomecko knew about his pet deer, and one day met Chief Sitting Bull III, the grandson of the man who figured in Custer's Massacre. The chief assured Mr. Tomecko that the deer was a great pet with the children, that it would not be harmed, and—"would he let it stay with the Indian children?" •

Mr. Tomecko would—he accompanied Ta-Tanga-Na-Zze back to the reserve, and to make the bargain quite general, also formal, the pipe of peace was called.

"Ta-Tanga" made his little speech, there were a few "how-hows"—then the pipe was pulled out a pipe of peace, and the smoke ascending upwards brought to an end the official ceremony of the transfer of Mr. Tomecko's pet deer to the Sioux Indian children, where it has enjoyed freedom in a somewhat peculiar democratic way, unmolested, protected itself a child of the wild, among children of the wilds, it has found a refuge of safety.

PERHAPS THERE is a thought of humanity at its best in the little story. And when Christmas comes maybap some of you parents will remember there is a Santa Claus; that little children have promised to care for and cherish their little wild chum, just an animal—but a friend.

It could be the beginning of a cure for man's inhumanity to man, and if not that, man's inhumanity to the animal children of God's Good Earth.

Blames Sopranos

From the Winnipeg Free Press.

The offer of a Toronto citizen of a prize of $500 for a national anthem which Canadians can sing raises the fundamental question whether it is possible to find any composition to fit both male and female vocal cords.

Canadians, when in unmixed company, managed pretty well with O Canada. Certainly the Canadian Mendelssohn turn out an impressive rendition. The trouble starts when the ladies join the gentlemen. Regardless of the enthusiasm at the beginning, the anthem bogs down quickly and long before the singers are in sight of the final "here" most of them are reduced to mere lip moving.

A friend who knows about such things blames all this on sopranos. Every audience, he contends, contains at least one lady who had a year of soloing in a choir. Like an old fire-horse sighting a whiff of smoke, she cannot resist the urge to let loose with a string of high C's when the singing starts. Instinctively, the untrained male singers try to get their voices up more in registers and the result is a musical shambles.

This explanation sounds reasonable enough. There are few more moving anthems than The Star Spangled Banner—when played by a brass band with a well augmented drum corps. But because it is so difficult to sing by mixed voices our neighbors have worked out a good compromise. In large meetings the audience stands at attention while a professional singer does the lyrics. That, at least, surmounted the national anthem problem with dignity. And it seems more human than the only other alternative that comes to mind—passing a law against soprano singing in public places.

This'n That

As she started off on her daily shopping tour, Mrs. Jones met Mrs. Green, and they chatted pleasantly as they walked on.

"That neighbor of yours," she said presently, "she's a bit of a gossip, isn't she?"

"I wouldn't like to say," was Mrs. Green's careful retort; "but I know that when she came home from her holiday last summer her tongue was sunburned."

"I cannot understand why you call yourself a kind father," he wrote, "when you haven't sent me a cheque for over three weeks. What sort of kindness do you call that?"

"That's unremitting kindness," replied his father.

Mystified

Editor Bulletin: How many kinds of democracy are there? Regarding unnecessary strikes in Canada, it seems queer when people are worthy to work for private enterprise and make the shareholders a fat living, yet when such a necessary item as "unity" is asked for to secure a home and a decent meal it is refused. Yet these workers are just as worthy. Why don't we make Canada a real place to live in?

Security at Stake

Editor, Bulletin: The security of every wage earner in Canada is at stake at Windsor, Ontario.

Big Business knows this, therefore it attempted to create a test-case. A decision will be made whether the people of Canada will have decent wages or whether they will go the same route to the feudal economic slavery and the 10, 12 and 16-hour day of the nineteenth century.

I am a high school student. I shall soon be out of school and looking for a job. The only means by which I would be certain of a decent standard of living would be by being a member of a strong trade union. Students of high school, I hope to find strong unions, a standard 40-hour week, closed shop agreements and hopefully incorruptible labor-management industrial councils.

Do Unto Others

Editor, Bulletin: Dear Digenes: Are you Betty Smith and Jimmy Jones or did not they give you a real name? I have more to say than eat and sleep and I am 20 years off getting old age pension, but reading your letter in lines in your letter. I fear there is no concern in your make-up for the aged or sick and no trace of brotherly love for the old folks at home or Digby, who is not able to care for himself.

Everything is rosy with you and that's all that matters to you. I suppose proud to live in this Canada of ours, with all her wealth and resources to be developed, but what good is it if not used to feed and clothe the helpless and aged? This is a machine age, don't you know and there is a machine for every man, especially if he is over 55 or 60. You remind me of the squirrel trapped in a revolving branch to branch happy because he has a few nuts laid by.

Who gave you the right to put all the old folks in the same category because a few have wasted their opportunities? Lots of these old people are poor through no fault of their own. They have sent their families out into the world. Perhaps you never raised a family, but I and I know that it is very difficult to save and raise and educate a family of five or six or more at the same time.

But be careful. Life and fortune have taken a big turn for the worse in the lucky ones. Other folks have crop failures, loss of property, years of sickness, doctor and hospital bills, disaster and tragedy and life for them has not been a bed of roses.

The good book says: as ye mete it out to others so shall it be meted out to you. Don't go around with a chip on your shoulder, Diogenes, because these old people are just getting a bare existence out of what our taxes and toil allows them. Life is too short, not many old timers live long after they reach the ripe span of 70 years.

Lastly, I have seen people with all kinds of money hoarded and laid by, called by death at a moment's notice and someone else gets their savings. There are more important realities to think about in this world. So in the meantime, smile and put your shoulder to the wheel and give the other fellow the benefit of the doubt.

Freedom at Last As Japs Announce War 'Amicably' Over

Skeptical at First, Captives Roar With Delight When They Realize Blessed Day of Release Has Arrived

Gen. Wainwright today tells, in the 39th article of his story, the story of his last days in captivity and the reaction of himself and his men to the startling word that they were free.—EDITOR.

By GENERAL JONATHAN M. WAINWRIGHT

(Copyright 1945, King Features Syndicate Inc., and The Edmonton Bulletin. Reproduction in whole or in part strictly prohibited.)

I had no notion where our group of senior officers was being taken on the morning of December 1, 1944, when we placed Major Gen. Edward P. King's litter on the backs of the hard railroad car benches at Sheng Tai Tun and began to speculate on what was in the Red Cross packages that lay so temptingly close to us.

WE DISCOVERED OUR DESTINATION at the end of a long, cold ride that day when the train pulled into the Manchurian village of Sian. Gen. King's litter was lifted on a waiting truck, with the baggage, and the rest of us were piled into a bus. We were taken to our new prison camp which lay beyond that quaint old Manchurian settlement.

Our train had been frigid despite the way in which we huddled together for warmth. But compared to the temperature in Sian it was virtually a hotbox. Again we got the shakes and were glad to reach our prison, a long, one-storey building set on a hill above a frozen barracks yard. Officers and enlisted men, as well as Jap guards, shared the building. The place was equipped for steam heat, but the pipes were as cold as we were for the first 24 hours.

HERE AT SIAN we had our most inquisitive camp commander. He was a first lieutenant named Marui and never a day passed that he did not come into my room and make a thorough inspection of my clothes and baggage while I stood there at attention.

He was a meticulous devil. Upon our arrival he issued to each of us an exhaustive list of instructions telling us where every object in our rooms must be placed. In my room, for instance, certain articles had to be kept on a certain shelf and in a precise position. The washbox must be in its exact place, as must be the spittoon and the fire bucket. It was only an annoyance, but for men of our age it was so infernally picayune that it was a source of perpetual irritation. There is something degrading about being bawled out loudly in front of your men because a spittoon is a few inches out of its ordained place.

LIEUT. MARUI treated our enlisted men as cruelly as they had been treated anywhere else, including Karenko. In the bitterest weather he turned them out to work without proper clothing. I felt so sorry for Sgt. Hubert Carroll, my orderly, one day that I lent him my Jaegarmy woolen stocking cap and the boots that had been issued to me. But Marui spotted him and made him take them off, because they were intended for officers.

The food was bad at Sian, but at least we were done with our rice diets. We would have cornmeal mush for breakfast, a thick gruel for lunch, vegetables and a kind of soya curd for dinner—and wherever some senior Jap officer or important Jap civilian visited the camp we were served with white bread, after being warned not to mention to the visitor that it was not the usual custom.

EACH MAN WAS allowed to have one of his American Red Cross packages the day after we arrived. But two days later we were ordered to give back what we had not consumed or used, and thereafter the Japs parceled the supplies out to us in the tiniest portions possible.

I spent my third Christmas in captivity at this Sian camp. Next to the one at Karenko in 1942 it was the worst.

The Japs announced a day or two before that Lt. Marui was "pleased" to tell us that he would give us one egg each and would send five chickens to the 34 officers in our group. But we were also led to understand that he would give us at least one of our Red Cross packages for Christmas, to round out what proved to be an insufficient fare. With that in mind we more or less contentedly went about decorating our quarters with what scraps of colored paper we could find and some greenery we were able to break off the frozen trees of the area. The spirit of Christmas does not die easily in a Christian. We longed for home and family and fireside as much if not more than ever, and tried this feeble Manchurian substitute.

INSTEAD OF A PACKAGE for each of us—which would have meant a bit of meat, cigarettes and candy—we were given a small portion of our canned butter, cheese and jam, and told that because of this the future deliveries of our supplies would have to be reduced.

It put us in the kind of mood no one wanted to be in. That Christmas Day I wrote in my diary:

"What a travesty on the day. Christmas, hell! I only hope my dear ones at home are happier than I am."

Two fine boys, Pfc. Lloyd L. Kelly, U.S. Army, and Pvt. Johnny Kroeze, Netherlands East Indies Army, endeared themselves to me for life, and made my remaining months at Sian more livable, when they came into my room on January 1, 1945, bearing a chair they had ingeniously made out of a folding American cot they unearthed.

I HARDLY KNOW of anything they could have done for me that would have been nicer. The chair had arms, and a shelf on one side on which to place a book. The seat was made of canvas. I lowered my old bones into it with a sigh, while they stood there with delighted grins on their faces.

But it got them in trouble. With the chair they brought along a homemade gift card. It contained a suitable drawing for the season, and underneath they had written:

"Home Alive in '45
OCTOBER."

I carelessly left this heart-warming card on my table, and it was found there at roll call that night when Lt. Marui paraded in to inspect the room and see that everything was in place. His eye immediately alighted on the card, which he snatched up and read. He flew into a great rage.

MARUI HAD KELLY and Kroeze on the carpet the next day. He was madder about the significance of the card than he was about the chair, and he was almost mad enough about the chair to take it away from me.

"Why did you give General Wainwright that chair?" he bellowed at the boys. "And why have you suggested that he may be home in October?"

Kelly is a quick-witted lad. He explained that he and Kroeze had given me the chair because I had done them a favor or two in the past and they liked me.

The Jap let that go, after a time, but he bore down hard on the inscription on the card.

"Oh, that's a joke," Kelly laughed.

"It is not a joke! It is an attack on the Japanese war effort!" Marui yelled.

But Kelly kept laughing.

"No, it's a joke, Lieutenant," he insisted. "You see, we were just poking fun at the general."

"Fun?"

"Yes," Kelly lied, manfully. "You see, the general has a slogan of his own, and we wanted to ridicule it."

"What is your general's slogan?" the Jap asked suspiciously.

"The Golden Gate in '46," Kelly answered, without batting an eyelash, and that seemed to please the oaf.

Marui's worry over "Home Alive in '45" was that he feared we were getting news of Jap reverses. But there was no way for us to find out what was happening in the world. We repeatedly made efforts to get newspapers or radio news, but to no avail. We wrote the Jap colonel in charge of all prison camps in Manchuria and to the International Red Cross. The British and Dutch wrote to their respective protective powers in Tokyo. But the lid was on tight.

OUR BARRACKS, as I said, were heated by steam. But it was at times so cold in there that I had to wear most of my clothes day and night. Sgt. Carroll and Cpl. T. J. Willard helped by wangling some flour from the kitchen, making paste, and sticking paper over the ill-fitting windows.

When all the books were read and re-read at Sian I spent my daylight hours serving as the official razor-blade sharpener of the camp. Just before he died at Karenko, poor Sgt. Cavanaugh willed me his little concave-shaped razor hone. I became quite proficient at the job, in fact so proficient that I was kept busy at it through most of each day the rest of my time at Sian.

I was able to sharpen as many as 20 blades a day. There was no way of buying new blades, so it was imperative that our old ones be kept sharp. I made my own two blades last a full year with Cavanaugh's hone. I kept the Dutch governor general's single blade in workable condition for seven months and 24 days.

The long Manchurian winter dragged on and, each man to his own taste, we did what we could to enjoy our minds. I just about committed to memory Kenneth Robert's "Oliver Wiswell" his "Northwest Passage" and Stewart Edward White's fine frontier story "The Long Rifle."

And I continued a string of solitaire games which I had commenced about a year after my capture. I decided that I would play 10,000 games and record the results. By the late winter of 1945 I had passed the 7,500 mark.

Finding enough to smoke was a problem at Sian. The Japs would not give us enough of our Red Cross cigarettes. A few substitutes were occasionally permitted to buy the thin, quick-burning and tasteless cigarettes of the Jap military. I smoked perhaps six of these a day—all I could get—then cut up the butts and used their contents in my pipe.

ALL OF OUR TEETH were in bad condition at this late date in physical neglect, and after much dickering the Japs let us hire a Jap dentist in February. He came with a rudimentary type of filling and stoked it into our cavities with primitive skill. Several of us, including myself, had teeth which had been broken off at the gums, but the dentist would not pull what was left and we suffered greatly from these nubs.

The thieving Jap supply men at Sian, with their warped outlook, often offered to sell us things for which we had no earthly use: Jap pictures, toy dolls, toy horses, cigarette cases and—one day—several sets of curling irons.

A new loneliness crept in on us as the endless winter continued. All of our mail was cut off and since we were permitted to hear no official news as to the progress of the war we began to feel more abandoned than ever in our bleak exile.

WE DID NOTICE, however, that the number of air raid drills increased and more often than not at night, we were told to draw our blackout curtains. We had no way of knowing for certain, but we reasoned that on more than one occasion these exercises" were more than mere drills, though we heard no planes or bombs. We ached for some such harbinger.

It was still freezing at Sian on March 21, but the Japs methodically ordered us to turn in the warm clothing they had issued to us, and they shut off the heat—for this was the first day of Spring. By April 3, when it was 16 degrees above zero, we all had heavy colds or influenza. The Japs then made a concession and turned the heat back on for an hour in the morning and an hour in the evening. But this stopped a week later.

They put the enlisted men to work about this time, ploughing a garden in the yard. Though the ground was still frozen from 12 to 18 inches deep. The senior officers were given small plots in which they might raise vegetables. Sgt. Carroll, in addition to his heavy work, generously planted me some string beans, red peppers, melons and tomatoes.

CARROLL AND OTHER enlisted men began coming to me from time to time in the early spring of 1945 to tell me that Jap soldiers with whom they occasionally spoke had told them the war was going well for the Americans in the Pacific.

In captivity it is easy to grasp at any comforting rumor. However, I had had too much contact with a quirk that is peculiar to the Jap mentality. The Jap takes an especial delight in lying. He uses lies as a means of building up a captive to a greater letdown when the truth becomes evident. So I tried not to let myself become excited over these rumors of success—and the hope of early liberation—and set to work to try to figure the length of the war as accurately as my military training permitted.

I first concluded that the war could never end until we landed a strong force on Japan proper.

IT SEEMED IMPERATIVE, therefore, that we must gain possession of an island near enough to Japan to permit a landing on the mainland supported by land-based aviation as well as by the fleet. I decided that it would take the better part of a year to build up a suitable invasion force after the island had been captured.

With the hypothetical island in our hands sometime in 1945 I believed that it would take until nearly the end of 1946 to build up the base, assemble the necessary troops and aviation and attend to the training for the invasion.

I, of course, had no knowledge of the atom bomb or the plans of Russia to intervene. Nor did I know, during these ruminations about the seizure of a jumping-off base that our forces even then were consolidating Okinawa.

I FINISHED THESE deliberations about August 15, 1945, and while it was inspiring even to dream of such forces in the field, at sea and in the air, it was still depressing to think of the years of imprisonment which lay before me.

You can well imagine my incredulity, therefore, when on the evening of August 18 Cpl. Willard tapped on my door and stuck his head in.

"I congratulate you, General," he said.

"Really? Upon what?" I asked, wholly unarmed for what he was about to say.

"The war is over," he said.

Just like that.

I could not get up from my chair, but I could talk.

"I don't believe it," I told him.

"IT MUST BE," he insisted. "The interpreter just told me. Russian troops have entered Manchuria. The interpreter says that that did it . . . it's over."

After a bit I got up and walked across the hall to Major Gen. George F. Moore's room, and for a long time we talked about the fantastic report. But it had come too soon. It was something that was too incredibly wonderful to be true, we decided. Yet I did not sleep a wink that night.

The next morning at roll call Lt. Marui assembled the officers, civilians and enlisted men in a large room in the barracks, formed us in line and read aloud for several minutes in Japanese from a prepared script.

Then he nodded to the interpreter.

The interpreter cleared his throat, looked at us seriously and began.

"By order of the Emperor the war has now been amicably terminated. . . ."

WE ROARED SUDDENLY with laughter . . . roared until the rest of his words were blotted out. There was no stopping the laughter. It came up in me, and in the others, with an irresistible force; something born of a combination of our relief, the look on the Japs face, the blind preposterousness of his beginning, the release from years of tension, the utter, utter joy over having survived to see this blessed day.

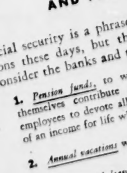

(Tomorrow: Even liberation has its headaches.)

"...SO NOW WE'LL HAVE A BANKER IN THE FAMILY!"

"Well, Bob has finally decided! When he's finished school he wants to go to work in a bank. And I'm glad—for a lot of reasons..."

He'll get a thorough training, and can even receive university instruction in banking and economics while he is working. Banking isn't learned in a day, but he'll get lots of help—and every opportunity to move up as he proves himself. The road to the top is wide open, and offers:

SECURITY AND PEACE OF MIND

Social security is a phrase prominent in public discussions these days, but the practice of it is not new. Consider the banks and their employees:

1. Pension funds; to which, with their employees, banks themselves contribute substantially, make it possible for employees to devote all their business lives to banking, sure of an income for life when they reach the age of retirement.
2. Annual vacations with pay.
3. Ordinary sick leave with pay, and special sick leave arrangements in special cases.
4. Group life insurance contributed to jointly by banks and employees.
5. Good working conditions.
6. Unlimited opportunity for enterprise and advancement.

Banks and their staffs, in co-operation with each other, have made it possible for the latter to enjoy a well-founded sense of permanency and security.

The Bulletin's SPORT SHOW by Hal Dean

SPORTS EDITOR

EXCEPTING for the second period when they seemed to relax and allowed Stampeders to climb right into the saddle, Riley Mullen's Flyers looked infinitely better Wednesday night than when they met the Calgarians in the opening game of the senior schedule here two weeks ago.

Last night's crowd of 4,421 paying customers on top of Saturday's 5,331, lifted the total for the three home games in Edmonton to more than 14,000 and an average considerably in excess of that of other cities in the circuit.

Stampeders outshot Flyers 29 to 24, both having eight in the initial spasm. That Calgary had a big margin on the play in the middle session is reflected in the figures, for Stamps fired 12 at Ken McAuley as compared to five Russ Dertell had to deal with. Flyers shot seven times at Dertell in the last five minutes of the game and 11 in the entire period. McAuley had to cope with only five pucks in the final heat.

CANADIANS WILL leave tonight for Winnipeg where they play Monarchs on Saturday and again on Monday. They have a date with Brandon Elks for Tuesday night. Sixteen players, Ken Henry, president of the club and Coach Earl Robertson will be included in the party.

Cy Thomas, still in hospital, is unable to make the trip and his place at left wing on the Thomas line will be filled by Ray Spencer. Goalies Don Murray and John Sobisk, defencemen Bill Gadsby, Ron Matthews, Ken Anderson, Leo Sorsa and Jack Davies, along with forwards John Rypien, Eddie Thomas, Don Slater, Bill Black, Harry Groves, Doug Anderson, Leo Luchini and Dick Sisson complete the contingent.

The team will return directly home after the Brandon game, having a junior league fixture with EAC on Thursday, Nov. 29. Two days later Canadians will entrain for Vancouver with the following schedule ahead—Dec. 4, Nanaimo; Dec. 6, New Westminster; Dec. 7, Vancouver; Dec. 8, Nanaimo.

BILL SLATER has been team manager of Moose Jaw Canucks. Bill was the power behind the Moose Jaw Monarchs, who won juvenile championship of both Saskatchewan and Alberta last spring, losing out to Winnipeg Orioles in the western final.

Byron Nelson, with his clubs bundled off to the factory for an overhaul, is vacationing at his home town, Denton, Texas, but will hit the tournament trail at Fort Worth in mid-December. Both Byron and his wife have been presented with a three-gallted walking horse by appreciative Denton citizens.

IN ADDITION to executing several highly successful flutterings as a rearguard last night, Pug Young checked in with a pair of assists. Bunny Dame, ex-Edmonton, ex-Trail Smokie also set up two goals. Most improved players on the ice since the league openers were Don Stanley and Stan Devicq. Stampeders are still smoothies at puck passing and operated with machine-like precision at times.

Don't overlook the Independent League doubleheader at the Arena tonight—Swift's versus RCAF and Burns versus Street Railway.

Second Period Goals Pay Off for Visiting Puckmen

Calgary Stampeders Edge Out Flyers 5 - 4

Both Clubs Now Have Six Points

By HAL DEAN

TWO goals scored by the Stampeders late in the second period while the Edmonton Flyers were enjoying an evening siesta, ultimately meant a 5-4 victory for the Calgarians in Wednesday night's Western Canada Hockey League game at the Arena here. Paid admissions totalled 4,421.

Flyers were full value for their 2-1 lead at the end of the first heat, but, after trading goals with the Stamps early in the middle session, allowed them to take almost complete control for the balance of the period.

With less than two minutes to go, Bob Brownridge coasted in from the corner almost unmolested to deadlock the count at 3-3. Then Dune Grant drifted over the blue line, faked a pass to right as he hit the defence, pivotted and fired a low shot into the corner to put Stampeders out in front.

EDMONTON HELD the edge in the final stanza, but an early goal had given Calgary a 3-3 margin, were Don Stanley alone until 40 seconds to go. Stan Devicq backhanded a high one into the net off Don Stanley's pass from the left wing.

Dune Grant with a pair paced the Calgary goal-getters, singleton going to Doug Cairns. Bob Brownridge and Archie Wilder. Bobby Carse netted twice for the Flyers. Johnny Kennedy and Stan Devicq splitting the other two.

Stampeders win places them on an even footing with Flyers, both clubs having six points as runners-up to Saskatoon Elks.

THE GAME WAS only 31 seconds old when Calgary counted the first goal. Bunny Dame carried the puck down the left boards into the corner. He continued on around behind the Edmonton net before slipping the disc out to the uncovered Cairns who slapped it in from about 20 feet.

Flyers then went to work, but it took almost two minutes to square matters. Bobby Carse finally taking Pug Young's pass right at the blue line and going in alone to beat Russ Dertell on a beautiful effort.

EDMONTON CONTINUED the offensive even when Lane was sent off for holding Hunter, and Kennedy cashed in following a rush by Bobby Carse. Kennedy had had originated at their own blue line. The time was 5:30.

Midway in the chapter, Desmarais was penalized for roughing Van Deelan, but Flyers were unable to get their power play organized, most of the attempts fizzling out before they even hit the Calgary blue line. Both sides changed on the fly several times before the period ended 2-1 for Edmonton.

DAME DREW A penalty seconds after the start of the second session for using the knee on Lane and Edmonton immediately applied the pressure. Carse putting the Flyers two up at exactly 1:35.

Bobby banged the rubber in before Dertell could clear on Lane's shot from just inside the Calgary blue line.

Grant got the goal back in four minutes on a lovely shot from mid-ice, after accepting Cairn's pass. He finished off the play by cutting in from left wing.

Stampeders had much the better of play for the balance of the period, even when Hunter was handed a high-sticking ticket. However they were unable to score until 18:35, when Brownridge shuttled in from the right corner with McAuley the only Flyer in sight. Grant's goal came at 19:31.

PLAY WAS DISORGANIZED on both sides for the first five minutes of the final period. Lane did score with Craddock off for boarding, but there was an offside whistle on the go-in. Stanley was banished for cross-checking and Flyers lost the advantage in manpower.

Calgary scored with Young serving a high-sticking penalty, when Wilder and Dame were both left uncovered in front of the Edmonton net. Wilder eventually took the shot, but they would have had time to draw lots for the honor. So Flyer excepting McAuley being in the vicinity.

Flyer pressure drew dividends when Devicq whipped in Stanley's pass in the final minute.

Clippers Trounce Vets

Late Rally Gives Varsity 36-30 Victory Over Division

Three quick baskets in the last minute of play climaxed a bitterly fought contest between Varsity and U.S. Division Wednesday night and gave the University cagers their fourth straight victory, 36-30, in the second half of the Edmonton Senior Men's Basketball League doubleheader at U.S. Air Base gym. Clippers turned back Canadian Legion Vets 47-22 in the other game.

With just 70 seconds remaining, the unbeaten Bears and Division were deadlocked 30-30, but Jim Macrae, high scoring Varsity forward who led the way with 14 points, dropped in a field goal to break the tie. Bill Hansen followed to make it 34-30 and then just before the final gong, Macrae sank Basher two-pointer to clinch the win for the Golden Bears.

It was close all the way. Varsity led by two points, 12-10 at quarter time and then Division outscored the winners 9-6 in the second 10-minute session to take a slim 19-18 lead at the half. Division, through the untiring efforts of tall Rex Williams, led 27-22 at the three-quarter mark, but Varsity came roaring down the stretch to tie the game and go on to win.

IN THE FIRST GAME, Clippers and Vets were even pickings at 10 the third quarter after battling them through a close first half. Vets out-scored the U.S. Army cagers 9-7 in the initial quarter, but the Clippers came back to grab the lead in the second by adding seven while holding the Legion gang to four to hold a 14-13 margin at half time.

Clippers put on the pressure after that and the Vets could offer little resistance. The winners ran the count to 25-15 at three-quarter time and then finished up by dropping in 22 points to the Vets' nine.

Howard Shimmons set a new individual scoring record when he paced the Clippers with 24 points, bettering his old mark by six counters.

Providence Reds Beat New Haven

PROVIDENCE, R.I., Nov. 22—(AP)—Scoring four goals in the last period, the Reds defeated New Haven Eagles, 7-5, in a free-scoring American Hockey League game before 5,139 last night.

Jack Lavoie and Armand Lemieux led the Providence scoring spree with two goals each as the Reds twice cut down a three-goal deficit. The Eagles led 3-0 at the end of the first period and 5-3 at the end of the second.

Bedard, Jamieson and Kemp were the other Providence scorers. New Haven marksmen were Bell, McPherson, Desilets, Pargeter and Larson.

Hope to Organize Western Canada Football League

REGINA, Nov. 22—(CP)—Considering the disorganized situation in sport created by war, the Western Canada Rugby Union has come through its first post-war season with few incidents to ruffle league president Neil J. (Pidlee) Taylor.

He succeeded in soothing the feelings of irate club officials sufficiently to permit Calgary Stampeders, winners of a two-game series against Regina Roughriders, to meet Winnipeg Blue Bombers. Calgary wanted three games but the decision was to hold one and Blue Bombers chalked up a 9-5 victory.

Even then the play-off game was protested by Stampeders but Mr. Taylor overruled the protest and the path was clear for Winnipeg to head east for the Grey Cup final.

While all this was going on some thought was given to football in the west for next year. It's hoped that 1946 will see a five-team league operating in western Canada, comprising entries from Winnipeg, Calgary, Edmonton, Vancouver and Regina, and a meeting is to be held in February to draw up a schedule.

The difficulty of distance confronting Vancouver could be solved if the coast club, after a swing around the circuit, met other clubs in a stretch at home.

Big Increase in Wagering On Canadian Tracks in '45

OTTAWA, Nov. 22—(CP)—Canadians flocked to the pari-mutuels and pushed $42,193,258 through the wickets in 1945—the largest amount wagered on horse racing since the boom days of 1929.

The Dominion agriculture department, which supervises betting at 28 Canadian racing association tracks, Wednesday released its annual report showing that $5,125,059 more was bet on the nags this year than the $37,068,199 which went whirling around with the thoroughbreds in 1944.

THE REPORT SAID 35 race meetings which lasted a total of 307 days were held during the year, compared with 25 associations holding 35 meetings lasting 298 days in 1944. In 1929, 30 associations had 325 days of racing and the public wagered $45,580,845.

Ontario fans had the most opportunity with 98 days of racing and showed the most enthusiasm, backing their favorites to the tune of $25,967,764. The largest amount ever bet in a single meeting was the spring session of the Ontario Jockey Club at Woodbine Park, Toronto, when the take was $2,419,050.

PRIZE MONEY jumped to $1,568,245, an increase of $160,763 over the 1944 pot of $1,427,582.

Betting increased at every centre except Montreal and Claresholm, Alta.

Dumart Scores Two

Boston Hands Canadiens First Shutout of Season

BOSTON, Nov. 22—(CP)—With Woody Dumart scoring twice, the well-rested Boston Bruins subjected the Montreal Canadiens to their first shutout of the current National Hockey League campaign by a 3-0 margin last night before a packed 13,500 crowd at the Boston Garden.

Though defeated, Canadiens, deadlocked for first place with the Detroit Red Wings, put on a furious attack in every session and outshot the Bruins, in action for the first time in 10 days, 25-17.

The hard-driving Dumart poked in the first of his tallies during the first 14 minutes of lighting play on Jack McGill's rebound and, early in the finale, rifled in a 50-foot shot after taking a rink-width pass in centre from defenceman Pat Egan.

Just after goalie Paul Bibeault clinched his well-deserved shutout with a magnificient save against Dutch Hiller, Herb Cain wound up the game's scoring.

The win was the Bruins' second in three starts against the flying Frenchmen to date.

Frankie McCool Leaves Calgary To Join Leafs

TORONTO, Nov. 22—(CP)—The jittery man with the stomach ulcers is coming back to the National Hockey League. Frank McCool left his home in Calgary We'^eday to join the roster of the Toronto Maple Leafs after settlement of a salary dispute which reached an open breach the day bef ^e he was to start his second NHL season as Toronto's goaltender.

Whether the 27-year-old fighting Irishman will immediately take over in the nets for the downtrodden Leafs, who have wo only two games and tied one in 11 this season, is by no means settled.

Coach Clarence (Happy) Day, announcing that McCool is leaving Calgary immediately to join the team, put it this way: "This doesn't mean McCool is guaranteed his old netminding job because as coach I want the best goalkeeping I can get. So it's up to the boys to prove who deserves the spot."

McCool's chief opposition comes from 20-year-old Gordon Bell of Portage la Prairie, Man., whose nonchalant play is in direct contrast to McCool's nervous performance.

Fog Prevents 54,000 Fans From Seeing Russians Win

LONDON, Nov. 22. — (IC+Cable)—A heavy brown fog rolled in over London Wednesday to prevent 54,000 Football fans from getting a good look at Moscow Dynamos as the touring Russian club defeated Arsenal 4-3.

Spectators could not see what was happening on the field and hundreds left at halftime. Some of these crowded around radios in cafes and at coffee stands but even the announcer admitted he could not tell what was going on. Even the players were baffled.

THE FOG—first heavy one this winter—descended on the city soon after noon until it was as dark as if it were midnight. Many train services were cancelled or delayed and traffic was slowed to a crawl, although visibility improved when evening came officially.

To add to the confusion of the soccer game, it was played under the Russian system of refereeing which differed considerably from the British. The sound of the referee's whistle was about the only indication the crowd had of where plays were taking place. At the start of the game, one Russian player leaving the dressing room for the field lost his way.

"IT WOULD have been much better had not the game begun," commented Yakushin, the Soviet trainer.

"Still," he added, "it was the same for both sides. Our team found much difficulty in breathing in your fog which is strange to us."

Dynamos have defeated Cardiff City 10-1 and tied Chelsea 3-3 in two previous matches of their present tour.

To Build Stadium

Manitoba Varsity Planning Ambitious Athletic Program

WINNIPEG, Nov. 22.—Backed by mounting student interest and a board of governors vitally concerned over its lack of facilities for a proper athletic program, the athletic board of control of the University of Manitoba has launched plans to make the school a leading football and basketball body.

The scheme is still in the tentative stage, but an application seeking entry into the eight-team United States north central football conference is to be made while the possibilities of erecting a modern stadium and athletic building are explored. At present the school with post-war enrolment record of more than 4,000 students hasn't a football field or gymnasium.

A 5-MAN COMMITTEE has been appointed to work out details and select a site on the university's grounds where a stadium with a seating capacity of at least 5,000 could be built. Acceptance of the entry will obligate the school to field a basketball team as well as a football club.

"If we are accepted it will be a stimulus to the university that has been needed for a long, long time," said R. W. Younans, physical director and secretary of the athletic board. "We recognize it will take at least two years to build a football team. The material is available, and all that we need to provide the American teams with stiff competition is good coaching.

"SINCE WE ARE going to play American rules an American coach will be hired. The job won't be too tough since a lot of the students are familiar with the American game."

Younans said that several Winnipeg Blue Bombers' players are students at the university and if the school enters the U.S. league they would be expected to play for the university. He said it was possible that the Bombers, represented in the western Canada interprovincial union, might find it difficult to obtain a sufficient number of good players if a university team is formed.

Blue Bombers Will Leave for Toronto Monday

WINNIPEG, Nov. 22—(CP)—Winnipeg Blue Bombers, western Canada football champions, will leave for Toronto next Monday to get in a few practice sessions there before the Grey Cup final Dec. 1 with either Toronto Balmy Beach or Toronto Argonauts.

In making the announcement last night, it was also disclosed that Bert Warwick will leave Thursday to scout Saturday's eastern final at Toronto.

Bombers will take about 25 players on the trip and expect to hold final workouts in Toronto. A. U. Chipman, president of the Winnipeg football club, and line coach Bill Nairn will be among those accompanying the team.

TWO ARGO PLAYERS OUT FOR SATURDAY

TORONTO, Nov. 22—(CP)—Toronto Argonauts, grooming for Saturday's eastern Canada football final here against Toronto Balmy Beach, announced after a one-hour scrimmage last night that Andy Tommy and Fred Doty will be missing from the lineup in the Grey cup preliminary.

Tommy has a knee injury and Doty, 194-pound freshman quarterback, will rest an injured ankle.

Beaches held what supporters termed a "rollicking" workout with coach Ted Reeve seeking vainly to have his players take things easy after playing three games in eight days up to last Saturday.

Portland Defeats Seattle Ironmen 5-4 in Overtime

SEATTLE, Nov. 22—(CP)—Portland Eagles defeated the last place Seattle Ironmen 5-4 in overtime in a fast-moving Pacific Coast Hockey League game last night.

Varsity, Mortons Continue to Win Girls' Basketball

University and Mortons continued their winning ways in the City Girls' Basketball League Wednesday night when they took their second straight games. The Varsity girls overpowered Walk-Rites 45-11 and Mortons trimmed South Side 56-19.

Vera Hole was high scorer for the night and set a new record for the season when she paced the students with 19 points. June Causgrove also added a lot of punch to the winners' attack with 14 counters. Olive Barnes turned in a great game, despite only scoring one point, by effectively checking Fay Dodds, Walk-Rites' star forward.

Varsity took a 13-1 lead in the first quarter and were never in danger. They led 31-3 at the half, 29-5 at three-quarter time and finished up on the long end of a 45-11 count.

MORTONS, with only seven players turning out, had little trouble in slopping South Side in the other match. Shirley Thompson led a powerful attack with 16 points, while Connie Strachan, Pat Hurst and Beryl McManus also picked up sizable scores for their effective efforts.

Ruth Douglas turned in a great game for the losers with 11 points, but her performance wasn't backed up.

Mortons led 16-4 at the end of the first session, 35-6, at the half and 47-11 at three-quarter time.

It was a double win for Tommy McClocklin, enthusiastic coach, who was "bosman" for both Mortons and Varsity last night.

Ski Club Elects New Executive For This Year

Over 100 members of the Edmonton Ski Club met at the Connor's Hill cabin Wednesday evening to elect the 1945-46 executive and to hear an interesting talk by Captain Rex Gibson of the Alpine Club.

Treasurer Ken Sivertsen presented the club's financial statement covering last year's operations. Members were pleased to find that through the efforts of a most capable executive and keen business ability of Mr. Sivertsen the club has built up a substantial cash balance which will be used to the best advantage during the coming season to improve skiing conditions both at Connor's Hill and on Grassy slopes which are now under lease to the club.

To carry on the good work of the previous executive the following officers were elected for the 1945-46 season:

President, Ted Bishop; vice-president, Gordon Torgness; treasurer, Bill McCoy; secretary, Herb Moore; membership secretaries, Mrs. Marie Hovind, Mrs. Nell Godwin; social conveners, Evelyn Bertrand, Barry Logan, Johnny Crozier; ski supervisor, Johnny Hougan; junior representatives, Bob Sutherland, Maurice Neste.

It was with much regret that the members accepted Sivertsen's resignation as treasurer, a post which he has held for the past 10 years. A hearty vote of thanks was extended to Ken on the excellent job he performed during his long term in office.

Scores of former members now back from the armed services renewed old acquaintances. Ex-service men are assured of a warm and friendly invitation to join in the club's activities during the season just now getting under way.

TODAY'S MARKETS

Toronto Stocks

TORONTO, Nov. 22.—(CP)—Influenced, possibly, by the New York market holiday, potential buyers lowered their bids on the Toronto Exchange today and the result was a general easing of prices. Agregate turnover was off sharply to around 2,200,000 shares for the day compared with turnover of 3,148,000 shares on Wednesday.

LONDON STOCKS

LONDON, Nov. 22—(Reuters)—The stock market again was quiet and nationalization proposals for utilities deterred activities in some sections, particularly gas and electric supply shares. Other industrials were inactive with irregularities in breweries, which eased under profit-taking after recent rises.

British funds were steady under a moderate volume of business and European issues rallied after opening uncertainty.

International dollar stocks eased early in the session but rallied near the final hour. South African gold mines continued to meet selective support locally and from the Cape.

Rye Prices Cut In Dull Trading

WINNIPEG, Nov. 22—(CP)—Rye futures prices on the Winnipeg grain exchange today declined in dull trading. Most of the dealings were in initial trade when local and some selling accredited to American account appeared with thin support. Losses were further extended on lack of support but dealings were stagnant most of the session. The holiday in the United States contributed to lack of outside interest in the market.

At the close prices were 3-2 cents lower with Dec. $1.90¼b, May $1.88⅞a and July $1.80¼a.

McDonald Baptist Church Welcomes Servicemen Home

To welcome about 30 returning servicemen, 100 friends gathered at McDonald Baptist Church on Wednesday night. After a supper served at 6:30, a brief devotional period was held. Addresses of welcome were given by S. Grimwood, a veteran of World War I, who has been associated with the church for many years, and Scott Shade, Sunday school superintendent. Mr. Shade has held this position for a number of years, and many of the returning men had attended Sunday school under him.

Vocal solos were given by Miss Cora Shalen and L. E. Bayzand, and a piano solo by Miss Barbara Bayzand. A variety program followed, completing a most enjoyable evening.

Boy Scouts Plan Send Delegation To 1947 Jamboree

OTTAWA, Nov. 22—(CP)—Canada will send a delegation to the first post-war Boy Scout international jamboree in Paris in 1947, the semi-annual meeting of the Canadian Boy Scouts Association executive decided yesterday. Gerald H. Brown of Ottawa, honorary secretary, and provincial association presidents will form a committee to make arrangements.

A report showed Canadian Scouts had contributed $56,900 for relief of war suffering among Scouts in Britain and Europe, with $18,000 being spent to provide Scout handbooks for associations in Poland, Norway, Czechoslovakia, Holland and France.

Only One Son of Three Returning

LT. W. A. MILLER

FO. J. W. MILLER

LT. J. L. MILLER

Word has just been received by Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Miller, 8009 112 street, that their son, Lt. W. A. Miller, RCE, who was taken a prisoner at Dieppe, is now officially presumed dead. Following the Dieppe raid, Lt. Miller was known to have been in a German prison camp, but an escape attempt early in 1944 is now believed to have led to his death. FO. J. W. Miller, another son, was presumed dead in October, 1943, following air operations. The third son, Lt. J. L. Miller, RCA, is now back in Canada on an Edmonton bound train after crossing the Atlantic on the liner Queen Elizabeth, which docked last week-end.

NERVOUS EXHAUSTION

Many people are affected by nervous exhaustion brought about by many factors which may have no relation to actual physical disorders. Physical effects come later and are actually secondary to the nervous condition. Among the many causes of nervous disorders may be named environment in which there is emotional stress, worry, disharmony, jealousy, hate and fear. Physicians diagnose nervous exhaustion as neurasthenia and it is usually well recognized that little can be done to help the patient who does not help himself. The nervous condition brings on a train of physical disabilities which, while they may be "all in the head" according to the patient's friends, the pains and aches and distress are very real to the patient.

Insomnia is another distressing symptom and quite often the neurasthenic tosses and turns, actually physically tired, but with a brain which seems to be overestimulated and working over-time. While nervous exhaustion is not actually hereditary, there may be a tendency to it in families which are of the highly strung, nervous type. The outstanding symptoms of course are weakness and fatigue, and the patient complains of tiring easily on slight exertion. The emotional disturbances result in disturbances of the sympathetic nervous system thereby affecting the organs. The patient becomes too conscious of his physical welfare and takes an undue interest in the state of his health. While under normal conditions of health, the average individual is not aware that he has a heart, a stomach or other internal organs, but the neurasthenic fears the existence or development of some organic disease. He becomes aware of his digestion, studies the pulsation of his arteries, notes the contractions of his heart and often complains of a bad taste in the mouth. Sweating is a prominent symptom and often only the hands and feet are affected. In other cases, profuse perspiration arises from the arm pits. In such cases there is usually an over-action of the skin circulation, which in turn causes an increase in function of the sweat glands. The patient often takes up the attitude that he must escape from himself and many who can afford to do so take long trips and voyages to this end, only to find that escape is not possible. However, there is great hope for the neurasthenic who is really anxious to help himself.

All questions regarding health and diet will be answered. Large stamped, self-addressed envelope must be enclosed. Write on one side of paper only. Letters must not exceed 150 words. Address McCoy Health Service, The McCoy Building, 1151 West 6th Street, Los Angeles, Calif.

Veterans Pleased On Rehabilitation

Veterans who have turned to the department of veterans affairs for assistance in rehabilitation are satisfied with the treatment they have received according to a number of letters revealed on Thursday morning by J. W. Proctor, district administrator, department of veterans affairs, Redwood Building.

A cafe in Yellowknife will be redecorated and new equipment installed ready for the spring rush, says its veteran-owner.

Another returned man who has been established in business in Brooks, said in his letter: "It was my understanding prior to my discharge and it is now my knowledge that each individual case would receive personal attention and I feel my case is a splendid example."

One man from Millet who has been given aid to buy himself a home is also deeply appreciative according to his letter.

These are but samples culled from the files of the local offices of the department, Mr. Proctor says.

Forced Landing Made by Plane

Eighteen passengers and four crew members of a USAAF Air Transport Command C-47 were uninjured when failure of a motor caused a forced landing north of Whitehorse recently. The plane landed on a small lake.

A second plane was dispatched with sleeping bags, stoves, rations and medical supplies arriving within seven hours after word of the forced landing was flashed.

The supplies were dropped from the second plane.

Wednesday a Norseman aircraft was able to land on the lake and commence evacuation of the stranded passengers and crew.

Accident occurred about 1,000 miles north of Edmonton.

Baggage and cargo were jettisoned from the disabled aircraft in an unsuccessful effort to lighten it sufficiently to return to Whitehorse.

The aircraft was only slightly damaged, and was always in radio communication with Whitehorse.

All Satisfied On House Deal

All parties to an application for possession of a residence were greatly relieved when the tenant informed the court he had moved from the premises.

The tenant said he was happy to get alternative accommodation; the barrister engaged for the landlord on the application, William G. Morrow, was relieved that he did not have to press the claim for possession, and Mr. Justice Clinton J. Ford was more than satisfied that he did not have to make an order for possession.

Ice Fantasy To Play Here In December

The New York Ice Fantasy which has been playing to capacity houses at New York's Madison Square Garden, in eastern United States and Canadian cities, will be staged at the Edmonton arena during the week, Dec. 3 to 8, it was announced Wednesday by Charles E. Wilson, managing director of the Edmonton Exhibition Association.

A STELLAR GROUP of ice artists, including stars from New York, Hollywood and Canada, will appear in six gorgeous production numbers staged by De Lories Ziegfield, niece of the late Florenz Ziegfield. Included in the cast will be Ariane Le Vaillant, Swiss queen of the skates, and Bruce Clark, former skating partner of Sonja Henie.

The theme of the fantasy is a honeymoon with stage settings taking in many countries, including Mexico, Hawaii, Russia, Canada and the United States.

A SUPERB BALLET ensemble will be seen in fast-moving colorful pantomine productions, including the Mexican Hat Dance which features Shawn Ferguson, Hollywood star, dancing on top of a drum without skates.

Also in the cast is July Brennan, Miss Atlantic City of 1941 and 42, who performs a series of intricate dances. Majority of the ballet skaters have appeared in the Sonja Henie show, and their stunts rival those of the stars.

Interspersed throughout the show are such artists as Georg von Birgelen, who skates on stilts, leaps over a jeep on the ice, and over the heads of the ballet as members sit around tables.

BOBBY McLEAN, former world's speed skating champion, and four times holder of the United States title, Paul Lefebvre and Guy Longpi, two young comedians; La Laye Moore, Dallas, Texas, skating beauty; Ken Willock, Canadian war veteran, who does a cowboy number. Soloists of the show are James Barry and Camille Carter, internationally known vocalists.

Library Problems Under Discussion At Assn. Meeting

Twenty members of the Edmonton Library Association heard discussions of library problems at their meeting in the public library Wednesday evening.

After a brief business session Mrs. E. H. Gostick of the provincial library spoke of the excellent collection of valuable and useful material contained therein.

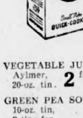

The need for a regional library system in Alberta was stressed in brief remarks by Miss Helen Stone of the extension library and Miss Marion Nantikivell of the university library told of the work being done there.

The ROAD AHEAD

By Capt. HARPER PROWSE, M.L.A.

FOR a long time I have been convinced that it is the avowed intention of the government of Canada, of Hon. Ian Mackenzie, minister of veterans' affairs, and of the department of veterans' affairs itself, to see that every possible and reasonable assistance is given to enable returned servicemen to become useful citizens of Canada as soon as possible. After reading through the minutes of proceedings and evidence of the special committee on veterans' affairs, now sitting regularly at Ottawa I have become satisfied that this is the case.

THE COMMITTEE was set up on Oct. 4, and held its first meeting on Tuesday, Oct. 9. It consists of 60 members of the House of Commons, the greatest majority of whom are veterans of one or both world wars. At the first meeting the minister tabled some 60 pamphlets, acts and orders-in-council dealing with veterans' affairs—so it is safe to assume that if the members of this committee attend to their homework they will be the busiest men at Ottawa.

The job of the committee is to consider all legislation and regulations now in effect concerning pensions, treatment, and re-establish-

Six Tag Days Recommended In Next Year

Finance committee of city council Wednesday recommended to city council that the city commissioners be authorized to grant permission for the holding of six tag days during 1946, and that any in excess of this be submitted to the finance committee for approval.

REPRESENTATIONS were made to the committee on behalf of the Canadian Legion Women's Auxiliary, and the Women's Auxiliary of the Army and Navy Veterans Association. Spokesmen for these organizations said they needed funds to continue work of visiting ex-service men in hospitals, and in the provision of small comforts for them.

They pointed out that calling a halt to raffles had deprived them of a substantial source of income, and there were no other sources of revenue open except tag days.

It was suggested that the organizations pool their resources for one tag day, instead of the separate tag days applied for.

REQUEST FOR the curtailment of tag days was received from the Edmonton Community Chest, and also from the Civic Employees' Community Chest.

The committee postponed the election of a chairman until a later meeting, and Mayor Harry Ainlay acted as chairman.

THE QUESTION

How is your Christmas shopping coming along?

THE ANSWERS

FLORA McGUGAN, salesgirl: Believe it or not, my list of "gifts to buy" is well on the way to being completed. I made up my mind to get it all out of the way in plenty of time this year and I have stuck to it. Saves a lot trouble at the last minute.

* * *

BOBBIE GREGSON, student: I haven't even thought about Christmas buying this year. From what people tell me however, I'm beginning to get the idea that there is very little to buy up to now so maybe I'll just settle for a batch of Christmas cards and some sincere wishes.

* * *

ARNOLD HETHERINGTON, tailor: I've bought one or two things for members of the family, but I'm going to wait for a few weeks before I buy presents on a wholesale scale. I have the idea that the closer we get to Christmas, the more there'll be on the market.

Schools Seeking Higher Grants

Higher grants to the University of Alberta, to the correspondence school branch and to divisions and districts were responsible for increased expenditures in the department of education amounting to $537,535 in the half year ended Sept. 30.

The department's expenditures during the period were $2,972,192 as compared with $2,434,659 in the corresponding period of 1944.

Old-Timers From Edmonton and District Meet

"Do you remember the time . . ." formed the theme of many conversations when members of the Northern Alberta Pioneers and Old Timers' Association met at the Macdonald hotel on Wednesday night for their annual dinner and "round-up". The top left picture shows Mrs. H. J. Wingfield, 9 Connors Road, in a pleasant exchange of memories with Mrs. D. G. McQueen, an honorary patron of the Old Timers' Association. Robert Gordon, in the upper right picture, is "only" 89 years old and lives by himself at 11238 134 street. Mrs. Murdoch McKinley and Miss Etta McLeod, stalwarts among the pioneers, are shown in the lower left picture, and Mr. and Mrs. John S. Fraser, in the lower right, have lived in Edmonton for more than 50 years. "And," Mr. Fraser adds, "I started to take The Edmonton Bulletin one year before I came to Edmonton and I still do."

At Annual Banquet Round-Up

Pioneers Urged to Keep Alive Dominant Spirit of Early Days

Pointing to history for his inspiration, Hon. J. C. Bowen, Lieutenant-Governor of Alberta, told members of the Northern Alberta Pioneers and Old Timers' Association at their annual banquet in the Macdonald hotel Wednesday evening to keep alive the spirit of the pioneer, to face the difficult years of re-adjustment which lie ahead of the world.

THOUGH THERE STILL exists misunderstanding on both sides, Canada has achieved a unity of people of two languages and of two differing outlooks, to a degree the envy of other nations. That unity is nowhere better expressed, His Honor said, than in the pride all Canadians feel in their heritage of the pioneering spirit which has made the country grow.

It was that spirit which first stimulated early settlers, who sailed from Europe in their tiny boats to seek new horizons and new freedoms, and it was that spirit which made possible the setting of the vast continent on which we live.

MR. BOWEN TRACED early history briefly, pausing for a moment to pay tribute to the leadership which actuated Louis Papineau in Quebec and William Lyon Mackenzie in Ontario to vigorous action against what were grave injustices.

Those rebellions led to Confederation and the lieutenant governor paid tribute to the foresight of the Fathers of Confederation who had forged the document making the union legal. From it had resulted the conception of Canada as a nation, and it still serves as a model for other nations seeking self-government on the same terms.

THOSE WHO SAY that the generations of more or less years have not had the qualities of their forefathers, that they lacked the aggressiveness of the pioneer spirit had been proven wrong by the war, Mr. Bowen declared. He mentioned the names of Alberta military units which had distinguished themselves from Dieppe through to final victory on German soil.

John C. McDougall, president of the association, was chairman. In his opening remarks he pointed to development of the province, including improvements in methods of communications and transportation, which in the old days would not have been thought possible by many who were at the dinner.

"IN THE OLD DAYS" he said, speaking of political development" a man was either a Grit or a Tory and everybody knew it, but now there are so many parties that many times a man doesn't know himself what he stands for."

There have been many changes in the economic set-up, too, the chairman said "including the income tax," but in the early days the entire production of the country could not have met the imposts now made by the government.

IN SPITE OF ALL these changes in the social order, most of them for the best, he urged old timers to continue to support their association which represented their link with the past.

Greetings were brought to the meeting on behalf of the City of Edmonton by Mayor Harry Ainlay and for the Southern Alberta Pioneers' Association by Walter D. Birney, president-elect of that sister group.

MUSICAL SELECTIONS were by Bernice McBeth, soloist, accompanied by Mrs. Myrtle Kerr and by Archie Bichan, fiddler.

Head table guests were piped to their places by Malcolm Roderick McCrimmon, late of the Scots Guards and honorary piper to the chief of the Clan McLeod, Dunvegan Castle, Scotland, who recently returned to his Fort Saskatchewan home after nearly six years' overseas service.

Head table guests included the lieutenant-governor, Mayor Ainlay, R. B. Streeper, U.S. consul; Mrs. D. G. McQueen, honorary patron of the association; Miss Etta McLeod, an honorary president, and others.

AFTER THE DINNER, which featured braised Elk Island elk and turkey, the 420 guests heard the speakers before taking part in a dance, which was presided over by J. A. McCoul, secretary of the association.

Official Resigns Government Post

S. Grimwood of the timber branch, lands and mines department, has tendered his resignation to take effect at the end of the month. Mr. Grimwood has been with the department since it was organized in 1930 on the province taking over the natural resources from the Dominion government. Previous to this he was employed by the Dominion government as field inspector in the Peace River country. He served overseas in the First Great War for four and a half years, leaving with the Third CMR in 1915.

Mr. Grimwood plans to remain in the city having accepted a position here.

School District Official Named

Following dismissal of the Vermilion River municipal district council, S. V. Lea, municipal inspector, has been appointed administrator pending reorganization, it was made known Wednesday at the department of municipal affairs.

This is the latest development in a long succession of deadlocks in which the council was unable to decide on the site of the municipal offices, the choice being between Marwayne, Kitscoty, Vermilion and Lloydminster.

Paint Materials In Short Supply

While paint supplies are a little easier basic raw materials are still in short supply, and it is not possible to predict at present when the supply situation will return to normal, Donald McIver, Winnipeg, assistant general manager, G. F. Stephens and Co., stated on his arrival here Thursday in the course of a business visit.

He is accompanied by A. K. Stephens, Winnipeg, sales manager for the company.

Mr. McIver said that linseed oil was in short supply, and also that the flax crop this year was below that of last year, and in consequence linseed oil production is somewhat lower.

He said also that resins, the basic material for interior paints, was in short supply and no fundamental increase in the supply of these products could be expected.

Reserve Judgment In Court Action Recover Damages

Judgment was reserved in supreme court Wednesday by Mr. Justice Hugh John Macdonald in the damage action brought by Mrs. Viola Slocombe, Edmonton saleswoman seeking $2,065 special and general damages from The City of Edmonton for injuries received when hit by a street car.

The accident occurred on Feb. 1, 1944 at the Jasper avenue and 102 street intersection as Mrs. Slocombe was crossing from north to south on the avenue in the pedestrian lane.

She suffered a scalp wound, concussion, a broken thigh and injury to her eyes.

Appoint Deputy For Department Of Government

Appointment of J. W. Judge as deputy minister of municipal affairs in the provincial government service was announced Thursday by Hon. C. E. Gerhart, minister in charge. He succeeds A. R. Soutter, who is retiring to superannuation at the end of the year.

JOHN WILLIAM JUDGE is a native of Renfrew, Ont., where he was born Nov. 18, 1888. Educated in public schools there and matriculating at Renfrew Collegiate Institute he went to Winnipeg with his family and on into Alberta in 1911 as engineer of a railway construction crew.

After serving with the Canadian forces in the First Great War, Mr. Judge entered the Alberta public service first in 1925 as resident engineer with the department of public works.

HE WAS TRANSFERRED to the department of municipal affairs on Nov. 18, 1929, as research officer of the department of municipal affairs, became supervisor of improvement districts in the assessments branch of that department on Nov. 1, 1934, and director of assessments on June 24, 1935, which is the appointment he now holds.

He resides at 11099 90 avenue.

U.S. Personnel Here Observes Holiday

One of the biggest American holidays of the year—Thanksgiving Day—is being celebrated at United States army bases here Thursday.

Most offices of the army are closed with work also halting at airport hangars.

Officers at the Edmonton air base were holding a dinner Thursday evening.

Other functions were also planned.

Army, Navy Vets Will Nominate

Nomination of officers for the next club year will take place at the regular monthly meeting of the Army and Navy Veterans Edmonton unit in the club rooms next Sunday starting at 2.30 p.m.

Other business of importance to war veterans will also be transacted.

Vice-President

Govt. Is Unlikely Take Over Power

However wide the powers conferred by legislation on the Alberta power commission, the government would hesitate to take over any large utility corporation without an empowering act of the Legislature, said Premier Ernest Manning Wednesday.

He was commenting on recent representations by the United Farmers and UFA jointly for public assumption of the Calgary Power Co.

Although the government, Mr. Manning said, is vitally interested in the rapid expansion of rural power facilities, it is not yet foreseen whether the coming session will bring down any measure dealing with that subject.

Auto Groups Meet

Annual meeting of the three branches of the Alberta Motor Association will be held Dec. 6 in the Palliser hotel, Calgary, it was announced Wednesday by William Caton, secretary-manager of the Northern Alberta branch.

"Florence has been invited to her first dance. Guess I'd better talk to her about 'sitting out'!"

Elizabeth Woodward Says . . .

A MAD RUSH IS NO POPULARITY BARGAIN

Popularity is precious. It's a special dividend on your friendship investment. There are several reasons why you're top o'the heap. You may not be pretty, but you are attractive. A guy's proud to be seen with you because other fellows look twice. And admire his taste. You laugh a lot. Not silly giggles—but honest laughter because you have a good time. And even if the joke's on you, it's still a howl.

You don't try to emphasize your own importance by telling everybody how wonderful you are. And you don't toss sharp darbs of criticism either. You're trustworthy. You not only keep others' secrets—but you're careful in passing on any bit of information—just in case it was a confidence. If you do spill, it's by accident. What Jean said about Jane, it's a compliment. And you're considerate. If you know Kate has mobs, you don't suggest doubling his date. Being considerate covers a multitude of things. But the sum total is thinking of other people before you think about you.

ALL THESE qualities have run your popularity stock higher and higher. They aren't cute tricks you have copied from a movie star or older sister. They're fine qualities bedded deep in your heart. But there's always the danger that you will get careless. Since everything seems to come your way, you may think you don't have to work for it any more. You have worked hard to be a gal toddling streets and the temptation's pretty strong to relax on your laurels. It takes time to be thoughtful and kind and considerate. It's often a bit of a bother. And why should you when your phone's always buzzing? And your front porch is cluttered with crew cuts and bobby socks.

TOO MUCH popularity has a tendency to make swelling heavies the ears. A gal overrun with dates can

Your Baby And Mine

By MYRTLE MEYER ELDRED

To mention thumb-sucking is to invite discussion, some of it not too good-natured. People feel very strongly on the subject and scientific inquiry, notwithstanding, they give up their opinions with reluctance.

BUT EMOTIONS ASIDE, it should be obvious that every parent has the same objective and that it is to end the thumb-sucking eventually. If she will end it more quickly by ignoring it, and encourage it to greater violence if she frustrates it, then there would seem to be no choice of the course she would take. She should ignore it.

Children have a definite need for sucking in the first year of life. With our present programs of fewer large feedings, instead of numerous small ones, the baby may be denied sufficient of the sucking exercise. He adds to it by sucking on anything available from toys to thumbs, fingers, clothes and bedclothes.

As the baby develops into more mature ways of getting food the sucking impulse diminishes. And unless his parents have striven valiantly to prohibit this sucking, he will be ready to give it up between the first and second yeaer.

This picture is quite different if the parents have used every device to oppose the child's satisfaction of his sucking desires. One mother related how for months she tied up the baby's thumb. But the moment the atall was removed, the baby went back to sucking his thumb as vigorously as if he had never been frustrated. She began to wonder whether this could be a very wise way of ending a habit, by preventing the child from using his hands in normal fashion.

Thumb-sucking in hunger would be seen in a thin baby, and obviously food is the answer to that problem. But for those children who do seem to need thumb-sucking almost from birth, the present-day authoritative answer is to let them suck their thumbs until such time as the desire dies down naturally.

THE THUMB-SUCKING that continues indefinitely is related, in most cases, to emotional disturbance, the child lacking companionship, lacking active opportunities and materials for play, not, as some mothers might surmise, to the parent's neglect of the habit itself.

Our leaflet, No. 55, "Thumb-sucking," discusses the subject of young and older children. It may be had by sending a stamped, self-addressed envelope with this request to Myrtle Meyer Eldred, in care of this newspaper.

Whenever any one declares that he does not give a hoot for what people think of him, he is merely trying to satisfy a desire not to have people think well of him. One of the strongest human instincts is that desire for approval by others. Nobody can change that very much; and nobody should try. Of course we cannot please everybody, but we can please those who are our ideals. People who try to bluff that they don't care what anyone thinks of them should read Dale Carnegie's book, "How to Win Friends and Influence People."

Points for Parents

By EDYTH THOMAS WALLACE

Mother: "You are going to Grandmother's to play awhile and when you come home a little baby brother or sister will be here. The baby will sleep most of the time and you can help me."

Mother: "I've got a surprise for you, Johnnie. Look, a dear little baby brother; isn't he sweet?"

Son: "I don't like him. Why did you want a new baby?"

If a child knows what to expect, it is easier for him to adjust to a new situation.

DOROTHY DIX SAYS—

No Antidote Discovered Yet to Cure Naggers

Four Sisters Are Very Miserable Because Their Mother Does Nothing But Nag Them From Morning Until Night; She Is Ruining Their Lives

DEAR MISS DIX—We are four sisters who are thoroughly fed up because our mother does nothing but nag us from morning until night. She is absolutely ruining our lives. We want to do our duty by her, but we don't want our happiness needlessly sacrificed. Our brothers left home because of her constant nagging and she tormented our poor father until he died at an early age What can we do about it?

UNHAPPY DAUGHTER.

ANSWER—I fear that your mother's case is hopeless. Science has discovered toxins that will counteract snake bites and rabies, but nothing in an antidote for the venom of the human tongue.

You see the trouble with the nagger is that he or she, and it is generally she, doesn't want to be cured. They have no desire to reform. They are like drunkards who get too much of a kick out of the bottle to be willing to give it up, even if they could.

YOU WILL FIND that the nagger is almost invariably a person of mediocre intellect and with few interests in life. Narrow-minded and bigoted and self-conceited and tyrannical, with an inferiority complex, and with a soul filled with malice and envy and bitterness—nagging is the combined expression of all of these disabilities, so if we had time to consider anybody else's sufferings except our own, we might well pity the poor creature.

Sometimes a woman nags because her nagging is the distorted form of love, and because she is overanxious about her husband and children. Often nagging is an expression of jealousy. She cannot endure her children having the happiness she missed, and when she nags about what she has done for her children it is just the cry of her hungry soul for a little appreciation.

THERE IS NO WAY to stop your mother from nagging because it has become a habit with her, and she doesn't know she is doing it, or maybe she gets a thrill out of it. However, it might help matters to try to get her interested in things that do not have to do with the family. Get her to join clubs, to go about, to travel, to do anything that will give her something to think about besides you girls.

DEAR MISS DIX—When I was 17 I became engaged to a man many years my senior. Now I find that I look with horror upon the idea of marrying him. I have a fine position with a good future ahead of me. This man is not in good health and he will never be able to make more than a bare living.

I have told him that I don't want to marry him, but he says if I don't he will make trouble for me. What shall I do?

WORRIED.

ANSWER— Don't let him bluff you into marrying him. No trouble that he could make for you would be as great as the trouble you would bring on yourself if you married him. He must be demented, or he would not want a wife who feels towards him as you do.

DEAR DOROTHY DIX—I am a young girl and go out with quite a few boys, but I can never think of a thing to say to them. Will you please tell me how to be an interesting conversationalist?

CECIL.

ANSWER—Nobody can tell you that, Cecil. The gift of gab is a boon direct from nature and not an art that you can acquire.

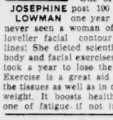

The best advice that I can give you is to ask questions when you begin to find yourself tongue-tied. Ask a boy about his college, or his fraternity, or his job and that will start him off on a monologue that will hold his interest for hours, and all you will have to do it to keep throwing in ejaculations of 'How wonderful!' "Did you really do that?" "Amazing!" And so on.

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN—

Why Grow Old?

I RECEIVE A GREAT many letters from women saying that they would fain be slim in youthful figures back but are afraid to lose many pounds because they dread looking older in face.

It is true that we lose weight in our faces when we lose weight generally; however, I believe the tired older look which women find in the head is usually due to faddish diets which starve the body of vital elements in nutrition and too, a too sudden loss, and to the habit of using diet alone in reduction and forgetting exercise.

One of my pupils JOSEPHINE LOWMAN post 100 pounds in one year and then never seen a woman of 40 with a lovelier facial contour or fewer lines! She dieted scientifically, did a lot of exercises daily, and took a year to lose the poundage. Exercise is a great aid in firming the tissues and helps in distributing weight. It boosts health and rids one of fatigue if not indulged in too much and these are reflected in the face.

It also is a wise plan to pay special attention to skin lubrication during a reducing program. The skin must be kept soft and the reduction must be gradual if the skin is to adapt itself beautifully to its new dimensions. Not only should you give careful thought to lubrication of the neck and face but you should use a lotion over the entire body.

WINTER WINDS ADD to the problem of keeping the skin pliable. Use an oily cream on your face and neck at night or once a day and let it soak in. If you are subject to the little lines about the eyes, pat eye cream on at night and apply a disappearing emulsion about the eyes underneath your make-up in the daytime.

If your skin is extremely dry use a cleansing cream instead of soap and water and beware of astringents with a high alcohol content.

REMEMBER THAT vitamin deficiencies also can affect your skin as well as your health. If you wish to have leaflet No. 37, "Vitamin Defence" send a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request to Josephine Lowman in care of this newspaper.

Minute Make-Ups

If you use liquefying cleansing cream do you know that it does a grand cleansing job when used on a small pad of cotton? But this method takes too long when you have very little time. So, when you are at leisure, make several dozen little round pads of absorbent cotton. Submerge them out in water. Place them in a glass jar. Keep in the ice box. They will save you time!

Offers Own Job To Ex-Serviceman

GALLUP, N.M., Nov. 22—(AP)—J. L. Cordova, high school janitor, inserted this ad in the newspaper: "I have a family of five and am amply providing for them through this job. However, I did nothing but work for wages (top prices) to win this war. With this thought in mind I am willing to sacrifice my job to any serviceman who fought and bled for my country and my family. Boys, come and get it."

Four Factors Make Up Canada's Personality

Four factors that make up Canada's personality are climate, abundance, immensity and Canada's position as a nation between Britain and the United States," stated Dr. Donald Dickie, when she spoke to the Edmonton branch, Canadian Business and Professional Women's club, Wednesday evening in the Corona hotel. Her subject was "Canada Has a Personality."

The speaker said the personality of a nation is composed of the same ingredients as that of an individual. Personality of an individual is made up of the total effect or sum of his traits, character, qualities, ways of thinking and doing things. She continued defining the personality of an individual, using this as a concrete example of the personality of a nation.

DR. DICKIE referred to the different types of personalities, namely, the strong, rich, immature, pleasing and weak. "Not all individuals can be placed in one of those types, but are often a small amount of each. They are the richer personalities," she said.

Inherited tendencies and environment are the two important factors making up personality, the speaker said. Although personality is not inherited, character tendencies are, and it is environment that determines the development of these tendencies.

Touching upon the element of ego in personality, the speaker said that ego constantly acts in such a way that it will receive from environment the satisfactory reaction. Thus a repeated series of satisfactory reactions develop into a trend, called a "behaviour pattern", and this latter is the trade of personality, she said. It is this "behaviour pattern" differing in each person, that makes personality, Dr. Dickie said.

"WE CAN apply these principles to the personality of a nation, since a nation is the sum of its individuals, the sum of traites chosen and developed by a national environment," she said.

The speaker recounted the early history of Canada and its first inhabitants, the Indians. They were intelligent, dignified and thoughtful in general, she said, while the white ancestors were of the peasant people. Then there were the special races, the speaker said. She cited for examples, the French, gay and clear thinking; the Scotch, persistent in character; the English, a strong instinct for comfort and a genius for government; the Irish keenly imaginative; the Scandinavians, plain living and high thinking; the Germans, attention to detail; the Russians, vast amount of fire and spirit and a genius of creation.

"FROM ALL these," Dr. Dickie said, "our Canadian personality has developed."

Commenting on the two different ways in which Canada and the United States have handled their racial tendencies, Dr. Dickie said the main difference lay in the fact that the United States has tried to make a melting pot of her races out of which grew an entire race of Americans, whereas Canada, on the other hand, emphasized the differences of her races.

Stating that Canada acted as a mediator between England and the United States, the speaker predicted that in the future, Canada may be called upon to act in a similar fashion for Russia.

SUMMING UP Canada's personality, the speaker said, "Canada stands out only less in power than the greatest nation, and Canada has a civilization, nature and personality different from all other nations. To be a Canadian is to hold a special place in the world's regard."

Seated at the head table were the following: Mrs. Harry Ainley, Alderman Mrs. B. M. Browne, Mrs. F. C. Butterworth, Mrs. Elizabeth Sterling Haynes, Mrs. Margaret Devlin, Mrs. J. W. Roy Dodge, Mrs. W. H. Edwards, Miss Eva Sangster, Miss Isabel MacMillan, Miss Sue Brewster, Miss L. MacNeill, Miss Jean McCallum, Miss Elsie Kirby and Mrs. C. Campbell.

Mrs. Dodge was soloist accompanied by Mrs. Edwards. Miss Sangster introduced the speakers, and Mrs. Devlin, president, presided. More than 85 members attended.

B. C. Wedding Holds Interest

VANCOUVER, Nov. 22.—Former residents of Calgary and Edmonton, now living in Vancouver, were principals in a wedding solemnized in the chapel of Christ church cathedral, Vancouver, Nov. 17, when Miss Elsie May Green, became the bride of Gordon Stewart Robinson. The Rev. Selwyn Evans performed the ceremony.

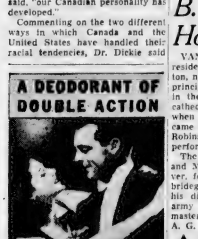

The bride is the daughter of Mr and Mrs. George Gibb of Vancouver, formerly of Calgary, and the bridegroom who recently received his discharge from the Canadian army in which he was a quarter master sergeant, is the son of Mrs. A. G. Robinson of Edmonton.

A TWO-PIECE ensemble of powder blue crepe complemented by a matching hat with shoulder-length veil, was worn by the bride whose corsage was of sweetheart roses and heather.

Mrs. Pat Delyan was matron-of-honor.

John Norman attended the groom. When leaving later for Victoria where they will reside, the bride donned a royal blue suit worn beneath a shag top coat and wore navy blue accessories.

● Authorities say the difference between husky children and those who are poor eaters, underweight and nervous is often simply a matter of proper nourishment, especially an adequate supply of vitamins.

But vitamins alone are not enough. For authorities now agree that vitamins do not work alone. They work as a team with certain other food elements.

So for this reason, thousands are switching to Ovaltine. Unlike mere "vitamin carriers," Ovaltine food beverage contains not only extra vitamins but nearly all the precious food elements needed for health and top vitality. These include Vitamins A, B1 and D, the important minerals calcium, phosphorus and iron, high quality proteins and quick energy foods—food elements authorities agree are needed for best results.

So, if your child is thin, nervous and not developing properly, why not turn to Ovaltine as thousands are doing. Three normal meals plus two glasses of Ovaltine a day give your child all the extra amounts of vitamins and minerals needed for health and top vitality.

Hoerst - Winkler Wedding At Sacred Heart Church

Sacred Heart church was the scene of the wedding Wednesday at 7 p.m. of Miss Elaine Barbara Winkler, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gordon E. Winkler to Sgt. Norman F. Hoerst, USAAF, son of Norman C. Hoerst, Lockland, Ohio, and the late Mrs. Hoerst. White chrysanthemums decorated the church and the Rev. Fr. M. G. O'Gorman performed the ceremony.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a gold wool afternoon frock, brown accessories and a corsage of white carnations.

SISTER of the bride, Miss Irene Winkler was bridesmaid and wore a turquoise wool frock, black accessories and a corsage of Talisman roses.

Sgt. Paul Fritz, USAAF, was best man.

MRS. WINKLER chose for her daughter's wedding a royal blue wool frock, navy accessories and a corsage of white roses.

After the ceremony a reception for 25 guests was held at the home of the bride's parents, where the bride's table was set with a lace cloth and decorated with a wedding cake, baby chrysanthemums and lighted tapers. Mrs. Ite Beers Lee poured coffee and Miss M. J. Butler assisted in serving. Dr. R. A. Rooney proposed the toast to the bride.

The couple will reside in Edmonton temporarily and later make their home in Lockland.

A. L. Marks Addresses Club

Mrs. J. B. Stewart entertained the Edmonton branch, Canadian Authors' Association at the November meeting Monday evening when A. L. Marks spoke on "Blueprint for a Universal Curriculum."

He emphasized the need of more religious teaching in modern schools.

Dealing with the discovery and utilization of atomic energy, he said that while to date its use had been horrible, if used properly it could be a factor for great good in the world, but improperly educated people will eventually destroy themselves with it.

IN ORDER to educate children, he said, "we must drop from our educational system the story of the Bible, protection against wars and protection against narcotics." Sex education he deemed important, as well as direction in both work and play. Morals and manners and history and modern languages should have a prominent place.

PARENTS get much of the blame for juvenile delinquency, while the real root of the trouble, he stated, is that no pattern is provided by educational systems and the child consequently becomes frustrated and seeks unhealthy outlets.

He regards the Alberta curriculum as the best in Canada.

Following Mr. Marks, W. H. Swift, chief inspector of schools for the province, outlined difficulties in implementing some of the reforms advocated by Mr. Marks, the chief one being the great difficulty at the present time in obtaining properly trained and experienced teachers.

Sophie Kickley Pledges Vows

CALGARY, Nov. 22.—Lady of Perpetual Help church was the scene of a wedding, Nov. 17, when Miss Sophie Isabel Kickley, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Kickley, became the bride of John Patrick O'Brien, son of Mr. and Mrs. P. M. O'Brien, Edmonton.

The bride wore a floor-length gown of white made with a bodice of satin, fitted waistline and fishnet skirt. The long sleeves tapered to lily points over the wrists. Her floor-length veil was held to her head with a headdress of rare Irish feathers and she carried a bouquet of deep red roses.

MISS NELLIE O'BRIEN, sister of the bridegroom, was bridesmaid and L. Sirois, Calgary, was best man.

Following the ceremony a wedding supper for 20 guests was held at the Empress Grill. The table was centred with a tiered wedding cake, flanked by tall pink tapers. Toast to the bride was proposed by T. Evans, Calgary.

Later in the evening, another reception was held at the Palliser hotel for 75 guests.

FOR A HONEYMOON trip to Vancouver, the bride wore a gold-toned wool dress topped with a black seal coat, and black accessories.

Out-of-town guests were: Mr. and Mrs. P. M. O'Brien and Miss Nellie O'Brien, Mrs. R. Little and Miss Clara Little, all of Edmonton; Mr. and Mrs. A. Youngberg, Bawlf, and Mr. and Mrs. William Matheson, Medicine Hat.

THE FORD STRIKE

Can be Settled

NOW

The major obstacle standing in the way of an immediate end to the prolonged Ford strike, and the return of thousands of Ford employees and other Canadian workers to jobs and wages, is the uncompromising demand of the union for what they term "union security."

What IS "Union Security?"

One form of Union Security is the Union Shop. UNION SHOP MEANS THIS: no man or woman can get or hold a job in a plant where union shop conditions prevail UNLESS HE OR SHE IS A MEMBER OF A UNION OR CONSENTS TO BECOME A MEMBER as a condition of employment.

Ford of Canada recognizes and respects the employee's individual right to belong to a union if he so desires and the right of union representatives to bargain collectively on behalf of employees, but this Company believes no employee should be COMPELLED as a condition of employment, to become or to remain a member of any labor union.

Union leaders claim the Union Shop is necessary to ensure democratic conditions within a plant. We believe the Union Shop is contrary to the ideas of democracy held by the ordinary citizen. The Union Shop is not democracy; it is a DICTATORSHIP BY LABOR UNION.

The FACTS about the Union Shop

1. The Union Shop is not designed to protect the rights of the employee, but to give a labor union dictatorial power over workers in a plant.
2. The Union Shop compels workers in a plant to join and support the union—and to pay cash tribute from their wages to the union on penalty of losing their jobs. The Union Shop may mean security for union officials—but it does not mean JOB SECURITY for the employee.
3. The Union Shop sets up a dictatorship over the working force in a plant. Individual employees are forced to join and remain members of the union, regardless of how they may disagree with union policies. They could be forced to support these policies on penalty of expulsion from the union, which automatically would mean the loss of their jobs.
4. The Union Shop is not necessary to ensure or protect the security of a union.

Ford of Canada recognizes the right of its employees to belong to the union of their choice. The Company recognizes the right of the appropriate union to bargain collectively on behalf of plant employees, whether union members or not.

The Strike Can be Ended NOW

We believe that the granting of a union dictatorship is not the way to end the Ford strike.

We believe that the proposal made to the union by the Company on November 16, is a sound and fair basis for settlement. This proposal, though rejected by the union, is still open for acceptance. It provides that Ford employees be returned to their jobs and wages, while union and Company negotiate a new collective bargaining agreement. It proposes that, after a reasonable period of time for negotiations, all remaining differences be decided upon by an arbitrator to be appointed by the Minister of Labor for Canada from among the judges of the Supreme Court of Ontario. It requires that both union and Company agree to accept and be bound by the arbitrator's decision.

The principle of arbitration is as old as British ideas of fair play and equal justice. It is, basically, the same democratic process as that applied in the Courts of Canada to the settlement of differences between conflicting parties. If agreed to by the union, the Company's proposal would quickly put an end to the long-drawn-out strike. It would restore jobs and wages to thousands of Ford employees and other Canadian workers, it would restore production, now paralyzed throughout Canada's automotive industry, of sorely needed cars and trucks.

The Union can, and should, act on this reasonable and equitable proposal to end the Ford strike NOW.

Humane Officers Describe Duties

An outline of inspections carried out in local livestock markets by Humane Inspector H. J. Jones and Humane Officer A. Lawrence were given at the regular monthly meeting of the Alberta Humane Society held in the YWCA Tuesday evening. Action taken included the issuing of one summons and a large number of warnings. Inspections of conditions at the Market Square, and at various local distributing centres, had shown the results of proper care and attention.

Report Revenue For Province Up By $215,218

Ten sources of taxation and four of license fees yielded the province of Alberta $7,075,272.30 from the beginning of the fiscal year (April 1) until Sept. 30, representing an increase from these sources over the $215,218.06, of which $115,336.53 was from licenses and $99,882.07 from taxes. This was revealed in the half-yearly statement of provincial financing now available.

THIS RESULT WAS attained without the assistance of Dominion government subsidies and grants which last year totalled $1,281,311.11. Other sources besides taxes and licenses—for example rents, liquor profits and revenue producing assets—bring the $7,075,272.30 total accruing to the income account.

These grants comprise Dominion subsidies of $917,637.50; grant in lieu of income tax $1,443,418.96; grant in lieu of corporations tax $610,811.99; grant in lieu of railway tax $289,062.10, and grant in lieu of fuel oil licenses, $11,230.33.

TAXATION YIELDED $3,799,570.26; from personal and real property, $676,875.28, corporations (now surrendered to the Dominion) $671.85; amusement, $152,317.78; fur, $41,372.32; fuel oil "gas tax"), $2,782,600.21; arrears of income tax after being surrendered to the Dominion, $11,407.07; part-mutuel tax $76,184.37; succession duties, $51,707.44, bus mileage, $23,651.45; mineral tax, $11,817.49.

Licenses yielded $3,275,702.30 from motor vehicles, $3,099,869.13; trades and businesses, $74,747.18; fuel oil license, $11,780.35 and licenses such as hunting, fishing and auto, $89,305.44.

zent of former members of the armed services and others who have been engaged in pursuits closely related to war.

THEY ARE ALSO empowered to bring in one or more bills to clarify, amend, or supplement the aforementioned legislation, and to send for any persons, papers, or records considered necessary to permit them to arrive at their decisions. The committee is also authorized to sit while the house is sitting to give them the time necessary for their deliberation.

At the first meeting of the committee Hon. Ian Mackenzie gave a two-hour report on the history of veterans' legislation, beginning with an outline of what was done by parliament during and after the First Great War. At the next sitting he continued his review, bringing it up to date, and speaking for an additional one and one-half hours. This review is most interesting, especially when one contrasts the difference between the approach to the problem now with the way it was handled after World War I.

OUTLINING THE purpose of the committee Mr. Mackenzie stated: "What we intend to do, with the permission of this committee, is to go through all these various measures, with the recommendations of this committee, and as we dispose of them here to report them at once to the House of Commons; then have them endorsed or amended by the House of Commons. Then immediately the House of Commons shall have completed its task, there will be an office consolidation of all the findings of this committee and of the house. That would be what you might call a veterans' charter. It would be one composite enactment of the legislation, regulations, and orders-in-council, in statutory form for the benefit and information of all soldiers."

THE INTENTION I had was that whatever the House of Commons will finally endorse should be, by the department of veterans' affairs, placed together so that every Legion branch, Corps branch, Army and Navy branch, or Pensioners branch throughout Canada could have the whole thing before them in one place. We are prepared to hear representations from all these organizations."

This is a job well worth doing. It is a job that needs to be done. At the present time there have been so many acts, orders-in-council and regulations passed and issued that it is practically impossible to know them all, let alone know them well enough to apply them to individual cases. At the present time even the experts in the department of veterans affairs find themselves befuddled by conflicting regulations and ever-lapping orders.

AS I READ THE reports of this committee's activities and the statements and questions of the various members I cannot help but feel that it is the sincere intention of every member of it to see that the veterans get everything that they deserve—every bit of assistance that this country is able to give them. The fact that many of them have the experience gained out of the failures and shortcomings of rehabilitation measures which followed World War I to guide them is a good thing.

FROM TIME TO TIME, it is my intention, as I find time to digest the reports of this committee, to bring to readers of this column those facts which seem to me to be of general interest and which are most important.

Special Function Will Welcome Home Calgary Regiment

Relatives of men who are returning to their Alberta homes with the Calgary Highlanders have received invitations to attend the "Welcome home and civic reception" being accorded that unit by people of the southern Alberta city. The reception is being tendered at Mewata barracks at a time to be announced later. Guest of the regiment is in the upper left hand corner of the card. Holders of the card will be permitted to attend the reception.

Mrs. D. Smart, 11831 78 street, whose son, Piper Alex Smart, is one of the returnees says she is "quite thrilled" with the invitation and a member of the family indicated that all of them in Edmonton intended to be in Calgary for the welcome home.

Competition Is Expected In Auto Trade

Contrary to the widespread belief there would be a "lush" period in the retail automobile industry after lifting of government restrictions and with production in full swing, there would be a keener competition in all sections of the business which would demand alert and progressive administration, Howard B. Moore, Toronto, managing director of the Federation of Automobile Dealer Associations of Canada, said in an address Thursday at a dinner meeting in the Macdonald sponsored by the Edmonton branch, Northern Alberta Automobile Dealers' Association.

ABOUT 70 PERSONS were present, with representatives of distributing companies, wholesale, financing and banking as special guests. At the head table were: A. W. Shaw, president; A. L. Burrows, E. A. McVittie, Sudbury; Mr. Moore; Campbell Fraser; H. E. Pearson; D. Maze; Colin D. Mackenzie, and F. R. Bore.

Dealers who anticipated a return to normal times would do well to examine the meaning of normal as it affected the motor business. He stated that 'normal' was not a static thing that it varied with circumstances of any period. Viewed from a point of history it really meant 'average.'

COMMENTING ON the strike situation, Mr. Moore said the picture it presented was one of great concern to the retail trade, and that conditions could conceivably become worse before they improved. The disruption of war had unbalanced the domestic situation in most countries and in North America this was being manifested in interrupted production.

He referred to relationships between management and labor as having the character of a pendulum. This pendulum had swung to the left in that labor was taking undue advantage of industry, as the latter had taken advantage of labor prior to the war. The industry now was waiting for the pendulum to swing back.

WHEN PRODUCTION in Canada reached its peak, which might occur with surprising suddenness once it got rolling, many dealers would be caught napping if they thought there would be no special pressure requiring aggressive effort on their part, warned Mr. Moore.

"Before very long you're going to be out looking for buyers again," he said.

HE WARNED there would be a complex problem in the used car field, and that dealers would find they could not brush off the customer by declining to accept the "old boilers" that would be thrown on the market.

In North America the average motorist of today discarded four cardinal things in considering the purchase of a car. They were:

Ability for speed. "They want high gear for everything, and have placed emphasis on larger cars. Roomy interiors, to accommodate the family and friends, was the third essential; and, fourth, they demanded economy without sacrifice to any one of the other requirements.

HE THOUGHT that due to this there was little likelihood of a general swing toward the smaller types of car, with a consequence that production of the little car would be kept at a continuous minimum.

He noted that production facilities for automobiles were "enormous," and that with a release of restrictions and a levelling off of the labor problem it would skyrocket in sudden volume.

Economy of management would be an emphasized part of the new outlook for automobile dealers, he continued, with greater attention to the administrative end of the business. Between all branches of the industry business could be made pleasant and profitable without working undue disadvantage on any member of it, he said.

VOLUME SELLING would be the watchword in the post-war business, and he urged his listeners to be prepared to "get their share" in the mass selling program, or "to step out and let someone else in."

Several members representing different sections of business and industry which worked in conjunction with auto dealers in brief addresses outlined their views respecting the post-war conditions anticipated.

New executive of the Northern Alberta Automobile Dealers' Association, elected at the previous meeting of the body, consists of: President, A. W. Shaw, Vegreville; vice-president, J. S. Marshall; secretary, F. R. Bore, Directors: Y. C. Gotaas, Camrose; Ray Hide, Westlock; J. W. Austin, Ranfurly; M. G. Merner, Wetaskiwin; L. Tremblay, Morinville.

Immediate past president, Fred Chorley, conducted the banquet meeting.

STETTLER—A modern creamery will be built here on a site at the north end of Main Street, according to a decision reached at a special meeting of the town council and representatives of the Central Alberta Dairy Pool. The plant will be complete with pasteurization and ice cream equipment.

Following are this season's curling club officers: president, H. C. Allen; vice-president, R. J. Ellis; secretary-treasurer, W. Schloss.

D. R. McIvor, general merchant here for 20 years, has sold his business to Stanley Pethybridge, recently discharged from the Canadian army. Mr. and Mrs. R. Thorburn left this week for Ontario. Dr. George M. Ross has opened a practice here.
